The filibustering which Woodin, ...rdsall and McCarthy will inaugurate will ...ntinue until the proper moment arrives, when a stampede, previously arranged, will be made for Cornell by the republicans The very first democratic vote on the alphabetical list for Cornell will show Conkling he is sold out, and nothing will remain for him but to retire or await overwhelming defeat. When the democrats are unpledged, it is expected that their acquiescence in the programme, when they are shown the practicability of electing a democratic senator, will be spontaneous. The stalwarts will then have no resource save to indorse the choice of the joint session, or retire. It is believed from present indications that the latter alternative is scarcely probable, as Conkling will be unable to repeat his Grant tactics at Chicago, when the 306 stalwarts stood solid throughout.

—Robertson does not think the stalwarts can effect a coalition with the democrats, even on a t... consisting of one democrat with Co... He thinks the stalwarts could not deliver the necessary number of votes to carry out the deal. There are 54 democrats, and it requires 81 votes in joint assembly to elect, and Robertson says it would be impossible to get 27 republicans in any possible deal under the circumstances, to vote a mixed ticket. He says the democrats will vote solid for the caucus nominees and for a motion to adjourn, and even if the caucus instructed them to vote for the republicans they would bolt instructions. He pronounces any scheme to secure Conkling's return by the aid of democratic votes as impracticable. He thinks the democrats in caucus will nominate two prominent democrats, vote solid for them in the joint convention, and after demonstrating the impossibility of electing, will endeavor to effect a combination for final adjournment. Robertson says that when Conkling came to Albany he had, through Arthur's influence, but twenty votes all told; that the "boom" which Arthur promised him if he would come to Albany in person did not pan out, and that Cornell, who had previously advised him not to resign, then went to work and used all the official patronage to bring a pressure upon every assembly district and ran the list up to forty-three. Robertson contends that there is no doubt that Cornell will be the nominee, and that he will certainly be elected; that the stalwarts are falling away from Conkling and must join with the half-breeds and elect Cornell as a compromise candidate. He expects that the contest will end in a few days.

—It was at first supposed that the friends of the administration would select two candidates with which to confront the two senatorial deserters, but there is a growing sentiment among them in favor of avoiding all the dangers of dissensions that might arise out of the attempt to select at the outset two candidates for a fusion of numerous diverse elements. The plan most favored is that, by an amicable agreement between the friends of the various candidates, certain of them shall be chosen to be voted for when Mr. Conkling's successor is balloted for, and certain others when Mr. Platt's successor is being balloted for. In this way the candidates will not cross each other.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 30.—Vice-President Arthur, ex-Senators Conkling and Platt, and several other leading stalwarts, reached this city this morning, and are at the Delevan house. There are very few members of the legislature in the city, and there is no excitement.

The suggestion is made in some quarters that the legislature take a recess until after the November elections, and then come together again and vote for two United States senators. It is said that then the members can vote more independently of the influences which now govern them for the reason that they would know the disposition of their constituency toward them. If they were renominated and elected then they would understand that their respective positions now on the question were approved. If they are not renominated or not elected they can vote accordingly. This plan is attributed to the stalwarts. The administration supporters laugh at this proposition as entirely absurd. They say they do not want to consider any plans just now; all they want is to vote in joint session—no caucus, no plans, no machine contrivances whatever. Conkling and Platt cannot get the now requisite 80 votes, owing to the absence of J. S Carpenter. They say they will accept their defeat. They do not claim as yet that there will be eighty votes against the resigning senators. The fact is no one knows certainly how the vote will stand. The administration section claim every member has requested that his name be taken from the call for a caucus as an opponent of Conkling. The stalwarts at the start put down some ninety names of members on their call for a caucus and these names crumbled away until the list contained only a minority or some 50 names, but those who withdrew their names or most all of them, never signed the paper ostracising Conkling and Platt.

—The administration men were jubilant this evening over fresh accessions to their ranks Among them was Senator Mills, of Utica, who last week held aloof and would not state his position. Messrs Gorsline, Boardman, J. M. Palmer and Gales, members of the assembly who have been classified with the stalwarts, are now placed with the administrationists. Other changes are also anticipated and the administrationists claim that the vote for Conkling to-morrow will show him to be in the minority, in which case they say he will be abandoned entirely. On the other hand, the stalwarts say that he will never be abandoned; that his true friends will stand by him to the last as firmly as did the 306 by Grant at the Chicago convention. Among those visiting ex Senator Conkling this afternoon was Governor Cornell. The interview lasted over an hour. The Conkling men in the assembly have called a caucus of the republican members of that body for to-night to agree upon candidates. The senators are also respectfully invited to attend.

OUR NEW ROADS

UNDER DISCUSSION ON THE STREETS

The Feasibility of Two Roads to Birmingham Presented—The Influences Behind the Rival Lines—The Immense Freights Destined for These Lines.

The promise of a new road to the coal fields, in addition to the Georgia Western, made a great stir in the city on Sunday, and was a general subject of discussion.

There are some people who believe it to be absurd that there should be two roads built in the same direction. We fail to see the point in this. As we have always contended, the section lying between Columbus, Miss., and Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta is destined to be "the area of heavy freights" for the south. The exhaustless stores of coal, iron, granite, copper and slate to be found in this region—the vast forests of timber and hard wood—the rich fields of cotton, and the fertile "bottoms" of corn—these all go to make up a total of freights that under the rapid development now taking place will tax the carrying capacity of two roads much less of one.

A glance at the map will show that there is to the due west of Atlanta a railroad desert—so to speak—a broad belt unpenetrated by any line. It is a marvel—when we consider that is the best freight area in the south—that it has not been occupied by two or three lines long ago. At this end of the "railroad desert" are numerous lines converging to Atlanta—all without direct western connection. At the other end are the vast railroad systems of Texas and the southwest converging on the Mississippi—all without a direct eastern connection. Nothing is more inevitable than that a straight line should be run across this unoccupied territory, connecting the southwest with the east and the ocean. That Mr. Gordon should have first planned this road, as an air-line between Atlanta and Columbus, is simply saying that he blazed the way in which others will follow. He could never have hoped to have a monopoly of this rich and untouched field. Indeed, we should not be surprised to see another powerful corporation coming into the eastern gates of Atlanta within the next few years, and looking for a westward line. The Baltimore and Ohio road, now arranging to build from Danville to Charlotte, must build from Charlotte to Atlanta to protect its system. Once in Atlanta, it must follow its rival, the Clyde line, on to the west.

Without disparaging other lines, we believe that the two lines, now projecting towards Birmingham, five years after they are built, will be better paying roads than any lines running out of the city. It is a known fact that the railroads of this section, and especially coal carriers, have not been able to do the business confided to them. We have had gluts and freight stoppages almost constantly, and it has been out of the question to get an even steady current that would fill the demand of the people. We learn that last winter if the trains on the Western and Atlantic railroad had been placed equi-distant apart, there would have been a train pulled by a given point every 17 minutes of the 24 hours. Mr. McCracken, the superintendent of construction of the Cole roads, says it is a demonstrable fact that the railroads of Ohio make much better profits now than they did when there were only one fourth as many roads as there now are.

We hope that both our roads to the coal fields will be built. We believe that both will pay—and that the country through which they run will develop so rapidly that they will have all they can do to handle the business. Either of them—both of them—will find at the hands of our people a hearty and wholesome support.

The Georgia Western.

MR. GORDON LEAVES NEW YORK FOR ATLANTA TO NIGHT.

The following dispatch was received yesterday by a gentleman who authorizes its publication:

"NEW YORK, May 30.—I will leave New York for Atlanta on Tuesday night, and will reach there Thursday at 12 o'clock. J. B. GORDON."

A force of 65 new hands went to work on the grading of the Georgia Western yesterday, and a new force of 60 men will be added on Thursday. Mr. Greene reports that the work is progressing satisfactorily, several miles now being ready for the cross-ties.

The partial list of directors in the Georgia Western published in Sunday's CONSTITUTION has excited the most favorable comment. The names published are all of them strong ones. Mr. Dickinson was one of the leading spirits in the building of the Air-Line, Mr. Richardson is the immensely wealthy cotton planter, Mr. U. S. Grant, Jr., has strong connections and Messrs. Phinizy, Jewett and Anderson are well known as the heads of most important enterprises.

But Mr. Gordon will be in Atlanta on Thursday and will doubtless speak for himself, and we adjourn the matter til his arrival.

Alabama Road.

Columbus Enquirer.

The Columbus and Western (formerly Savannah and Memphis) is on the move. Instructions were given, as stated by the Talladega Reporter, early last week to the chief engineer of that road to proceed immediately to survey the route from Goodwater to cross the Coosa a little above old Fort Williams so as to connect with the Shelby Iron Works road, which has been extended down nearly to the Coosa. This will give them fourteen or fifteen miles of graded road from there to Columbiana, where they will cross the Selma, Rome and Dalton railroad, thence to Siluria, where they cross the South and North; thence to Jonesboro, where they cross the Alabama and Chattanooga road; thence direct to Lost Creek, in Walker county: thence to deep water on the Tennessee at or below Tuscumbia. Such, we are informed, is the general line to be surveyed. The work of survey has already begun.

Another account is that the road will take nearly an air line from Goodwater to Brierfield or Ashby station, and thence through the Cahaba and Warrior coal fields, passing below Syllacogga and Shelby iron works.

The Troy Enquirer says the certainty of the extension of the Brunswick and Albany railroad to Montgomery is assured. On an air line this road would run a few miles below Eufaula and join the Montgomery and Eufaula at Union Springs, or run parallel to it as far as Montgomery; but it is understood that under the charter granted the Montgomery and Eufaula no railroad can run parallel to it within six miles. This will necessitate the route of the Brunswick and Albany being changed, and it is very probable that it will cross the Chattahoochee at Fort Gaines, and pass near Clayton and through Troy to Montgomery. It is the impression of those who ought to know that the latter route will be adopted, and that the survey of the road will commence within ninety days. Such a consummation would be of incalculable benefit to this city, and the prospects of its realization are decidedly promising.

South Alabama is on a boom with prospective railroads. The Pensacola and Chattahoochee railroad is being surveyed, and will undoubtedly be built without delay. The Brunswick and Albany will also be in course of location and survey in a few weeks. The Montgomery Southern narrow gauge is under contract for ten miles of its route. The Troy and Elba narrow gauge will have a corps of engineers on it within sixty days. The Greenville, Elba and Geneva is in the prospective, without definite plans or expectations, but may develop more rapidly than is at present contemplated. The outlook for the rapid development of this section is certainly very flattering.

The survey of the route of the Pensacola and Atlantic railroad is progressing rapidly. A corps of engineers were at Geneva last Tuesday and expect to have the survey completed to Chattahoochee by the 15th of June. The road is expected to be completed by the first of January, 1883. It is understood that it will be located on the Alabama and Florida line, or within five miles of it, for two-thirds of the distance. Geneva will be on the route.

The Port Royal.

Augusta Evening News.

The last rumor in reference to Wadley and his roads is that he will lease the Port Royal road, or that it will enter the Wadley combination in some way. Nothing definite is yet known, except that such plans are the subject of consultation. Mr. Wadley has been in Augusta for several days in consultation with President Wilson, of the Port Royal and Augusta railway. The owners of the Port Royal are strongly represented, but no practical result has been reached as ... account for the inquiry for ...tock and also for the rise ... stocks and securi... ...demand, and ...tion of this ...railroad ...factory to ...ent would ...Wadley sys... ...al, would ...stock, ...he road.

Altogether, the railroad problem is progressing to even a more favorable solution, and the track to success is as straight and strong as the course and character of William M. Wadley.

Ducktown Branch.

Asheville Citizen.

The work of letting to contract the heavy work on the line of the road between here and Pigeon river has been completed. The portion of the line that has been placed under contract embraces the first eight miles west of the French Broad river and the first two and a half east of Pigeon, and the contracts have been taken by Mr. William G. Corpening and others on the Pigeon end and Messrs. Coleman & Co. on this end of the line. Work is to be commenced at once, and the contract requires its completion by the 15th of October. This leaves about ten miles in the center, which was to a great extent graded several years ago, and will now have to be brushed up.

Mr. A. B. Andrews, the president of the company, and Mr. Wilson, have been in town during the past two days looking after the work, and Mr. A. assures us that the whole work on both lines running from here will be pushed forward with all possible rapidity.

The Cole Syndicate.

New York Letter to Augusta Chronicle.

The Cole syndicate is much talked of here. There is no doubt of its commanding the situation. The State road will be flanked; but I understand that Governor Brown and his immediate associates are too broad-minded to put any obstacles in Cole's way. They perceive that the property may diminish in value. It could hardly be sold now, for what it would have brought a year ago. But it seems to me our people should look rather to what is good for the commonwealth than to mere local or individual interests. This will be the so ber, second thought. Mr Cole's prospect, soon to be an accomplishment, will be of inestimable service to Georgia. I suppose, too, that Governor Brown judges that in the tremendous awakening of southern industry and national prosperity, business will so augment that both roads cannot but help prosper. In this connection I may again recur to what has been harped on in this correspondence—the happening of the improbable. The end is not yet. What, for example, was more improbable than Mr. Cole's rise to the master of the railway situation south. And yet he has become so. He is king Cole once more, and no Newcomb or any other magnate will displace him, this time, for

The Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac.

RICHMOND, May 30.—At a called meeting of the stockholders of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad, held here last evening, Judge Robert Ould tendered his resignation as president of the company. Accompanying his letter of resignation was a communication to the stockholders setting forth at considerable length, the judge's reason for resigning. Which in effect, was that he could not honorably on his own part, and in faith to existing contracts with connecting roads, carry out the policy of discrimination in favor of the Potomac steamboat company, and being insisted upon by Pennsylvania stockholders, who hold, a controlling interest in this company. His resignation was accepted and Joseph P. Brinton, of Philadelphia, elected to succeed him

The Galveston and Pacific.

GALVESTON, Texas, May 30.—The Galveston and Pacific narrow gauge railroad company was organized here yesterday with a capital stock of $750,000. The route of the road will be from Galveston to Victoria, San Antonio and Camargo. The subscription books for the capital stock will be opened next week.

Ben Butler's Nephew To Be Hanged.

DENVER, May 30.—This morning's News says: W. H. Carty, who is sentenced to hang at Colorado Springs, June 17, for the murder, at Buena Vista, last April, of Deputy Marshal Perkins, is a nephew of Ben Butler, and that his right name is William H. Salisbury, of Salisbury, Mass. He was forced to leave home on account of recklessness, went to California, made a fortune in the gambling and saloon business, and afterwards lost all. He came to Colorado three years ago. He has two sisters, one married and wealthy, living in Lawrence, Mass. Since the murder, friends have been doing everything to save him. Massachusetts lawyers are here working in his behalf.

Children Burned to a Crisp.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 30.—A special to the Evening Dispatch from Plain City says: A barn belonging to Andrew Lewis, who lives five miles south of here, on what is called "the Taylor farm," was burned yesterday, while the family were all away but four children. It seems that in the father and mother's absence the children had been playing in the barn, and set fire to some old straw in the barn. The flames spread so rapidly that the children could not get out and were all found burned to death. Their bodies were recovered two hours after the fire, burned to a crisp. The children were aged from three to twelve years, and when found were all in a pile, showing that they had clung together in their suffering and last moments.

Crossing the Border.

GALVESTON, May 30.—A special from San Antonio to the News says that some weeks ago Lieutenant Bullis with some Seminole scouts crossed into Mexico in pursuit of bands of Lepans who murdered the McLaurin family. The Mexican consul at Eagle Pass has written a letter asking by what authority United States troops had invaded the soil of Mexico, and protesting against such an invasion in future. The letter has been referred to the headquarters of the army at Washington. General Stanley, commanding the district of the Neuces, declares his intention of following all marauding parties into Mexico who seek refuge there. It is not known what the result of the consul's protest will be.

Tennessee Topics.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

NASHVILLE, May 30.—The Nashville Evening Herald, one of two republican dailies located in this state, made an assignment to-day, and will probably suspend publication.

Captain James Davis, United States deputy collector, reached here this evening with John Welch, a well known illicit distiller, in custody, and jailed him. Welch attempted to escape when he was halted near his illicit distillery in Rhea county, and was shot in the shoulder. The wound will not prove serious. Welch is the man who shot Davis in a fight in Putnam county, about six months ago.

Bad Feeling Among the South Africans.

LONDON, May 30.—A dispatch from Durban says the feeling among the loyalists throughout Transvaal is very disturbed. There are numerous reports of Boer outrages since peace was established. It is reported that the Boers attacked a body of natives and murdered ten of the number because they were loyal to the queen, and working for the English. The Swaziers, Zulus and Transvaal natives express a determination to fight the Boers if they are left in complete possession of the country.

The Mining Engineers.

STAUNTON, Va., May 30.—The American institute of mining engineers met here to-day. The members were welcomed at the opera-house by Mayor Balthing on behalf of the municipality, and Hon. A. H. H. Stuart on behalf of the citizens. President Metcalf responded for the institute, thanking the citizens for the cordial reception given them. President Metcalf then read his annual address. Several papers on technical scientific subjects were also read and discussed.

The Fortune Bay Outrages.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Negotiations have been concluded between the secretary of state and Sir Edward Thornton, British minister, in regard to the outrages upon American fishermen at Fortune bay in 1878, by which the British government agrees to pay £15,000 as indemnity for the losses sustained by the American fishermen.

Gone Ashore.

LONDON, May 30.—The Anchor Line steamer Macedonia, is ashore near the mull of Cantyre light house Scotland. She left New York May 19th for Glasgow, and went ashore this morning in a dense fog at 3:30. Her hold and engine room are full of water and there is little prospect of floating her.

SUNDRY SPARKS

OF ALL SORTS FROM ALL POINTS.

Strange Death of a Baltimore Merchant—A Disastrous Fire in St. Louis—A Fireman Run to Death—A Printer Shoots His Wife and Kills Himself.

BALTIMORE, May 30.—Adolphus C. Schaefer, Jr., a prominent cotton broker of this city, was found dead. He left his office on Monday last, and not returning, his clerks supposed he had gone to the country, where his family were to spend the summer. For several days a stench arose from his house, and this morning the police were called by the neighbors to investigate the cause. On breaking into the house Mr. Schaefer's body was found sitting in a chair in an advanced state of decomposition. He is supposed to have died on Monday evening last. Mr. Schaefer was about 40 years old and highly esteemed in business circles.

A jury of inquest was summoned, and an examination of the body discovered a small pistol shot wound in his head, and a small derringer pistol was subsequently found in the room. The jury rendered a verdict of suicide.

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—The extension works of the Collier white lead and oil companies, northwest corner of 10th street and Clark avenue, caught fire shortly before midnight last night, and at the present writing, 12:30 a.m., almost the entire building is in flames with fair prospects of its total destruction.

The loss by the burning of the Collier white lead and oil works is from $120,000 to $150,000. Two fatal casualties resulted from the fire. One was a man run over by a runaway team and killed, and the other death evidently from heart disease, of Louis Cohen, connected with the Westlich Post newspaper, who was overcome while running to the fire and died after being carried to the city dispensary. The company is insured for $208,000 in 65 companies.

CHICAGO, May 30.—At 1 o'clock this morning Henry Graft, a German, thirty-two years old, died suddenly in a saloon conducted by Nick Shanks, at the corner of Elston and Fullerton avenues, in consequence of a drunken and most foolish act. Graft went into the place slightly under the influence of liquor, and after passing a few words with a number present, walked up to the bar and called for a pint of the best whisky. When it was furnished and paid for instead of taking it away, as the crowd supposed he would do, he coolly drank it to the last drop. Some acquaintance made a joking remark about the size of the drink. Thereupon Graft asserted that he could drink a quart more, and was willing to back himself up to the extent of five dollars. The bet was taken, the money put up, and the full quantity of the liquor poured out. The reckless man put the measure to his lips, and never removed it until the whiskey had disappeared. He then turned around with a laugh to claim the money, saying in a mocking way, "There, you, what did I tell you?" But before the two bills could be placed in his shaking palm he fell to the floor unconscious. The saloon-keeper and startled lookers-on made every exertion to arouse him, but without avail. In a few moments Graft's respiration and pulse ceased. He was dead. The police were at once notified, and the saloon taken in charge by them, while Shank was arrested to await the action of the coroner's jury. Graft was a single man, and worked at Lister's bone factory on Elston avenue, and is said to have been generally an industrious man.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 30.—About eight o'clock this morning a block of five frame dwellings in the western part of the city was burned. The fire originated in a house where two small children were locked in, in the absence of their parents. The flames spread so rapidly that one of the children, an infant of nine months, was burned to death before it could be reached. The other escaped unhurt through a window.—A colored man was struck and killed here today by the fast through southern train.

CINCINNATI, May 30.—A special from Charleston, West Virginia, says that last Friday John P. Nunley challenged George Nunley, his nephew, 19 years old, to fight a duel. They met on Campbell's creek on Saturday and George Nunley was shot in the mouth before he fired a shot. It is thought he cannot recover. Both are miners in good circumstances. The quarrel arose about family matters.

GALVESTON, May 30.—A special to the News from Dallas, dated yesterday, says: Private information received here from New Mexico announces the killing of James Bell, formerly a resident of Dallas, while in charge of a prisoner. The latter fractured Bell's skull with a pair of hand cuffs, inflicting fatal injury.

TRENTON, May 30.—The passenger train from New York on the Pennsylvania railroad, due here at 4:35, ran at full speed into an open switch at Bear's Swamp, four miles from here this afternoon. About a dozen persons were severely injured, and a number slightly.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Edward Dezendorf, compositor on the New York Sun, living in Brooklyn, shot and fatally wounded his wife in a quarrel this afternoon and then killed himself.

CHICAGO, May 30.—James Westauer's young daughter, aged sixteen, living at Markison, Wis., poisoned herself yesterday by swallowing a large quantity of baking powder and strychnine because her father had forbidden the house to her lover, Daniel Murray, aged eighteen. The latter, learning of the girl's death, committed suicide with the same compound.

TAKEN IN GEORGIA.

John Slater, the Robber of M. C. Irish, Brought Back to St. Louis and Lodged in Jail.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Mr. M. C. Irish, former proprietor of the Western house, at the corner of Broadway and Carr streets, arrived in the city via the Ohio and Mississippi railroad, at 6 o'clock last evening, and an hour and a half later turned over John Slater to the custody of Jailer Ryan. Stater is a criminal with the prospect of a long term in the penitentiary before him. He added to his crime the additional sin of the basest ingratitude and betrayal of trust under the following circumstances. He seems to have been a nerveless, ambitionless creature, never striving to get along in the world, but living from hand to mouth, a sort of city tramp. He has been acquainted with M. C. Irish for thirteen years. The latter was last year proprietor of the Western house, and had just commenced to do a good business when, along in the early fall, Slater came along and piteously begged his old acquaintance for food and shelter. Irish put him to work as a sort of a man of all work about the hotel. During fair week the hotel was doing a big business, Mr. Irish attended to the clerical duties himself. Worn out by watching, he retired at 4 o'clock the morning after the Veiled Prophets' parade and left Slater to watch the office. Irish was too tired and sleepy to remember to lock the office safe, in which were deposited $3,500 in money and three valuable watches. Of this amount $2,300 belonged to guests, one stock drover having a bundle of $1,700. The remainder belonged to Mr. Irish. The condition of the safe was discovered by Slater. The temptation was too much for him and he stole the money and watches and fled from the city. The next day Irish mortgaged his hotel and paid off every dollar that he owed his plundered guests, and since that time has been clerking in the establishment which he once owned. A description of the thief was printed upon postal cards and mailed to police authorities throughout the country. Nothing was heard of the fugitive until the 7th of May a telegram was received from the chief of police of Macon, Georgia, saying: "I think we have your man, Slater, alias Egan." Irish sent an attorney to Jefferson City to secure a requisition. He at once proceeded to Macon, arriving there on the 9th of May. He promptly identified the prisoner. When arrested Slater had in his possession $1,070 of the stolen money. He had given an order for it to A. O. Bacon, J. C. Rutherford, Jr., and Washington Dessau, Jr., prominent attorneys, who were making every effort to secure the prisoner's release through a writ of habeas corpus. Slater, with an unblushing cheek, denied ever having seen Mr. Irish, and claimed to be a former merchant of Baltimore. The writ of habeas corpus was refused, and then an attempt was made to secure a writ of error, two additional attorneys, Mr. Whittle and Judge Lyon, being brought into the case. Mr. Irish was alone represented by Mr. S. H. Jameson. One of the first actions of the latter was to tie up the money found in Slater's possession by having a receiver appointed. The prisoner stuck to his story of being a Baltimore merchant until advices were received from that city showing his statements to be false. The writ of error was refused on Wednesday morning, and Mr. Irish, who had received the requisition from Missouri and a warrant from Governor Colquitt, at once started for St Louis with his prisoner, via Chattanooga, the Cincinnati Southern, and the Ohio and Mississippi railroads. The credit of the arrest is due to Lieutenant Wiley, of the Macon police force. Slater, alias Egan, appeared mysteriously in that city two weeks after the robbery. He secured comfortable quarters in a private boarding house, and gave out that he was a man of means, seeking an investment of his capital. He was much sought after by real estate men, who showed him around the city, and pointed out pieces of property in which a good investment might be made. He even went into society to some extent, and was paying assiduous court to a wealthy widow when the crash came. Lieutenant Wiley became for some reason suspicious of "Martin Egan," the capitalist, and overhauled his papers until he came to the postal card description of Slater. The arrest immediately followed. After Slater found that the jig was up he admitted his identity to Irish. He declined on the trip to talk about his crime, only saying that he remembers nothing about robbing the safe, and that he must have been crazy at the time.

SPORTS OF THE DAY.

Jerome Park Races.

JEROME PARK, N. Y., May 30.—The American jockey club opened its spring meeting to-day with excellent races. The attendance was the largest and finest in the history of the association. The track was in a magnificent condition and the betting, taken as a whole, was very heavy.

The Derby Stakes.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

LONDON, May 30.—The following is the latest betting in the race for the Derby stakes: $7 to $4 on Peregrine, $5 to $4 against Iriquois, $7 to $4 against Geologist, $7 to $2 against Don Fulano, $4 to $1 against Sir Charles, $5 to $1 against Barrett, $5 to $1 against St. Louis, $10 to $1 against Trestan, and $10 to $1 against Lord Bradford's bay colt Limestone.

A Game of Billiards.

LONDON, May 30.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says George F. Slosson, the American billiardist whom the Parisians thought "dead," has reappeared here and challenges M. Vignaux, the French champion, to play a game of 300 points up for 10,000 francs. Slosson offers to play on a French table.

The French Derby.

PARIS, May 30.—The race for the French Derby was run yesterday, and was won by Albion; Patrie second, and Royaumont third. The race was won in a canter by two lengths, with a half length between the second and third horses. Time, 2:39.

The Rifle Shooters.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The Leech cup and champion medal, emblematic of American championship at long range rifle shooting, was won to-day by L. C. Bruce, with a score of 217 out of a possible 225.

THE CITIZENS' BANK

To Reappear in Court This Morning.

Judge Hillyer will dispose of two motions to-day touching the defunct Citizens' bank.

One motion asks the court to set aside a sum of money to pay the experts for an examination of the bank's books. Should this motion be granted the experts will begin their labor at once.

The other motion touches the bond question. Yesterday Messrs. Hopkins & Glenn, attorneys for Mr. W. D. Grant, petitioned the court to restrain the receivers from selling certain bonds now in the custody of the Atlanta national bank, and upon which the American Exchange bank of New York holds a lien. The attorneys will support their motion by showing that on the 22d of March last Mr. W. D. Grant bought of the Citizens' bank of Atlanta, $10,000 in Atlanta city 6 per cent bonds paying therefor a premium of one per cent. At the time the purchase was made the bonds were in New York, but the bank accepted Mr. Grant's check for $10,100 and gave him a bill of sale for the bonds promising to deliver them on or before the fifth of April. Mr. Grant, it will be claimed, called frequently for the bonds, but they were not delivered to him as they had not been forwarded from New York.

Soon after the bank suspended payment it was ascertained that the American Exchange bank of New York held, as collateral security, some Atlanta city bonds which were by order of the court brought to Atlanta subject to the lien of the New York bank. Among these bonds are the bonds described in the bill of sale given by the Citizens' bank to Mr. Grant and it is for the purpose of preventing their sale that this motion is made.

It is said that previous to the suspension of the bank Mr. Grant's pass book with the bank was balanced, and with a number of paid checks returned to him. Among these paid checks was the one given to pay for the Atlanta six per cent bonds. Judge Hillyer's disposition of the question will be read with care.

Very Ill.

Special dispatch to The Constitution.

BUFFALO, May 30.—Honorable William T. Fargo, president of the American express company, is lying very ill at his residence in this city, and little hopes are entertained that he will survive the night.

ALL AROUND US.

WHAT THE PEOPLE ARE DOING.

Suspension of a Bank—A Child's Skull Fractured—Demolition of Bridges—Accidentally Shot—A Mob at Work—Frank Cohen Leaves Rome in Mourning.

By Mail and Wire to The Constitution.

CHATTANOOGA, May 30.—The Discount and Deposit bank of this city has the following notice posted on its closed doors this morning:

This bank deems it best for the interests of all concerned to wind up its affairs and cease the business of banking, and to that end the entire assets of this bank have been assigned to T. M McConnell, S. A. Key and Edgar McKinney, to convert into cash, and pay all the creditors without preference. The assets of the bank are amply sufficient to pay all its liabilities. If from any cause they should not, the liability of the stockholders under the terms of the charter makes it absolutely certain that every creditor will get every dollar due him. The assignees will be able in a day or two to give all the information desired by creditors, and will do so. (Signed,)

JOHN KING, President.

The unexpected assignment causes much comment, the bank having received deposits to closing hour on Saturday. The liabilities are reported at $104,000 and the available assets at $106,000. To-morrow the assignees will pay 25 per cent. of all liabilities, and the balance will be paid as quickly as the money can be realized from the assets. The stockholders are John King, Thomas Crutchfield, D. M. Bell and A. C. Burns's estate. The bank was organized in 1867. A desire to retire from active business is the reason given by the stockholders for the assignment.

HAWKINSVILLE, May 28.—Mr. Joseph Miller died at his residence in this place this morning, at four o'clock, after a long and severe illness. Mr. Miller was born in Pittsburg, Pa., in 1830, and removed to this place in 1858, and has resided here since. At the close of the late war he purchased an interest in the large carriage manufactory here and was principal manager in a succesful business until his health failed. His death is a heavy loss to our town and community. He served throughout the late war in the Thirty-First Georgia regiment, under General J. B. Gordon. His death has been daily expected for several weeks. Mr. Miller was unmarried and his only relation in this section is Mr. William Miller, a brother, of this county. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and Mason, and will be buried by the latter organization to-morrow morning.——Our whole community welcomes the return to our town of that old pioneer, Simon Merritt, who left here in 1868, and has since been in nearly all the Pacific states and territories, principally Utah, Colorado, Nevada and California. Mr. Merritt was a citizen of Hawkinsville for many years, prior to and during the war, and many monuments to his energy and enterprise still exist here, among them the magnificent old "rock warehouse" which he built just before the beginning of the war. He was also a leading man in the steamboat enterprises—the only means of transportation to and from Hawkinsville before the building of the Macon and Brunswick railroad to this point. Mr. Merritt is the father of our excellent and enterprising young townsmen, Messrs. Roswell A. and Frank S. Merritt, and of Mrs. R. W. Anderson. Mr. Merritt is well known among the old settlers of Macon, Savannah, and, in fact, all over this and in many other states, who will be glad to learn that he returns in excellent health, and though past his three score and ten is as active as most men only half his age.——We are beginning to need rain here now, and if we do not get some soon crops will begin to suffer. We have had some showers, but none to do any permanent good.——The Baptist church here—Rev. George R. McCall, pastor—is having a very interesting series of meetings, and much interest is manifested.——The temperance boom has reached here, and many are signing the legislative petition circulated thoughout the state by the noble ladies of your city.

ROME, May 29.—The city council has determined to erect a suitable building for police headquarters, council chamber, city court room, clerk's office, town hall and Mountain City engine house. To this end a tax of three-eighths of one per cent on all taxable property in the city has just been levied.——Finding that it would be impracticable to furnish all who desired to hear Judge Bleckley's lecture Tuesday night, with tickets of invitation, the 'Merry Circle' have issued a general invitation to the public through the press of the city. The Nevin opera-house will be crowded. A number of Atlanta people are expected. Mr. Joel Branham one of the leading spirits of the Merry Circle, is thoroughly enthused and says the lecture will be a rare treat.——The commencement exercises of Shorter college will open on Friday evening, June 10th, on which night there will be an exhibition of the primary department. Sunday, June 12, the commencement sermon will be preached by Rev. W W. Montgomery, of Tennessee. Wednesday, June 15th will be commencement day, and that night Rev. R. J. Willingham will deliver the literary address at the college chapel. The exercises promise to be very interesting.——Rev. C. A. Evans has been invited to lecture in this city on the night of the 14th prox., for the benefit of the Young Men's library association, and will probably accept. No man can boast of more friends in the hill city than Mr. Evans, and he will have a large audience, should he consent to lecture here. The lecture committee of the association intend to invite Henry W. Grady to lecture at an early day.——Mr. Frank J. Cohen left yesterday for Chattanooga, his future home. Mr. Cohen is one of the best local editors in the state, and your correspondent wishes for him a brilliant career in the field of journalism.——The railroad magnates have left us, after deciding the depot question. Our citizens are anxiously awaiting developments as to the projected road from Rome to Atlanta. It is generally believed that such a road would be of vast benefit to both cities, and its completion will be hailed with joy.——Dr. J. E. Evans, of the Methodist church, preached an able sermon to-night on the temperance question. The doctor, while earnest and outspoken against the evils of the liquor traffic, is no fanatic. He argued the question calmly and forcibly.——Captain Joe Bass, of the Griffin Light Guards has been in the city for several days.——Captain John C. Printup has been confined to his room for over a week with a severe attack of rheumatism. His many friends wish for him a speedy recovery——The various committees on the fourth of July celebration are actively at work. Cheap rates of fare have been secured on all the railroads leading to this city. The fare from Atlanta to Rome will be $2, good for three days, and a large crowd is expected from the gate city.——One of the most pleasant social events that has occurred here in some time was the gathering of young people at the residence of Mr. A. R. Wright Friday night. The merry party broke up at a late hour, after an evening of hearty enjoyment.

ALBANY, May 28.—The fair, so-called, which came to a close yesterday afternoon, was not much in the way of a fair, but was nevertheless a delightful and enjoyable occasion—a sort of two days' picnic on a large scale, diversified with a number of novel and interesting features. Several horse races came off, also foot, stilt, wheelbarrow and velocipede racing, glass ball shooting, prize declamation, essay reading, dancing, etc. It was rather short on exhibits, but the above and other attractions in abundance, were greatly appreciated by a large crowd in attendance on both days, many of whom were from a distance, Mitchell and Thomas counties sending the best delegations. In short, though a failure in one way, it was a signal success in another, and served, at least, to awaken the town for the nonce from the lethargy and torpor of the summer solstice now on us with almost paralyzing effect, and in this served its purpose admirably. The News and Advertiser prints a list of premiums, prizes, and the successful contestants, in to-day's issue.——A gentleman who has traveled extensively within the past two weeks through Dougherty and four adjoining counties, says the corn crop is smaller and poorer, and will be shorter than for years, but the cotton everywhere looks remarkably well. We have every indication of a dry spell on us again.

DECATUR, May 30.—Squire Birke, colored, was brought before Judge J. W. Kirkpatrick to-day, charged with assault and battery with attempt to commit rape last Sunday morning about 2 o'clock upon the person of Miss Mary Ann Clay, an aged white lady, at her residence near Kirkwood. The evidence against Birke was very strong, and he was committed to jail to await his trial at next September term superior court.——The smoke-house of Edward H. Guess, who lives about two miles from Decatur, was broken into last Friday night and seventy-five country cured hams stolen. The thief was tracked to Decatur and a search warrant sworn out, and a number of colored men's houses searched, but no hams could be found nor evidence obtained against any particular person.——Rev. M. W. Sams, a well known Baptist minister, who has been spending several months in Florida, returned to his home, "Violet cottage," near this place, last week, greatly improved in health.——The dry weather has almost entirely ruined the oat crop in this county, which at one time promised to be very fine. The corn and cotton crops are also injured. Wheat is good. We had a fine rain at this place this evening.

CANTON, May 30.—Four car loads, about 150 "pic niggers," spent last Saturday in our town They behaved themselves very gentlemanly, and seemed to have enjoyed the day very much.——The rock piers to be built in Little river, one at Hawkins bridge and the other at Cherokee mills, were let out last Saturday by our ordinary to Mr. William Buford at 5.90 cents per square yard for the one at Cherokee mills, and the other to Mr. A. W. Archer at 4.50 cents per square yard. The heavy freshets in the fall washed away and demolished the bridges in our county to such an extent that many bridges will have to be built and other improvements made by the county.——A gentle rain fell yesterday, cooling the atmosphere and reviving the garden "sass" and field crops which sadly needed it.

CARROLTON, May 27.—Mr. William Conyers, a resident of this place, accidentally shot himself this morning. The gun was loaded with small shot and the entire contents were deposited in the front part of his left shoulder and arm, near the body, producing an ugly and dangerous wound. Drs. Fitts and Juhan were called in and administered to the wants of the suffering man. To-night at 8 o'clock, he is resting as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

ATHENS, May 26.—Mrs. A. P. Dearing and daughter are on a visit to Atlanta.——Rev. Mr. Smith, of Gainesville, is in Athens for the present, assisting in the revival services at the Methodist church. He attracts large crowds.——The Phi Kappa annual debate will take place on the 27th. Hon. Pope Barrow will preside.——Several days since a little child of Mr. Bains, fell and fractured its skull. It is so seriously injured it is not expected to live.

CHATTANOOGA, May 30.—A special to the Times gives the account of a double murder at Bridgeport, Alabama, yesterday, twenty miles from Chattanooga. An Irish tramp named Meehan, while bathing Saturday morning with some young men, became angered because they spattered him with mud, rushed for his knife and cut William Copeland in the neck, causing instant death. The tramp was seized and bound hand and foot, and while in prison Sam Reese, a cousin of Copeland, slipped up and shot Meehan through the head, causing death immediately. Reese escaped. The two cousins are connected with the wealthiest and most substantial families in that neighborhood.

What the Papers Say.

Berrien County News.

On Monday last several negroes from the turpentine farms came to town and indulged pretty freely in strong drink. They became very boisterous in the evening, and one Adam Garvin bid defiance to the town, at the same time using language tending to a breach of the peace. The citizens generally were much incensed at his disorderly conduct, and as he had defied arrest, resolved to show him that he was amenable to the law. Several persons armed themselves and were ordered by the magistrate to arrest him, which they did with but little resistance. The other negroes quieted down early in the row, which was, indeed, fortunate for them and the town, as there was considerable hot blood on the part of the whites, who could not have been restrained had they been justified in the least in resorting to harsh measures. From all appearances, Garvin needed but little encouragement from his comrades to make him desperate, and had he received their co-operation, times would have been hot for a little while. Quiet reigns once more.

Marion County Argus.

From Rev. J. W. Folsom, who has returned from pastoral duties in Webster, we get the following version of the shooting of Joe Harrell by Dan Smith, in that county. Last fall Harrell owned a store in Smithville, and employed Smith to attend to it for him. He is reported to have said that Smith did away with some of the goods. On Saturday, the 14th, Smith accosted Harrell in Preston about the matter, and told him what he had heard. Harrell replied that he wanted no difficulty, but would neither acknowledge nor deny having said that Smith had taken his goods, whereupon Smith drew his pistol. Harrell dodged and parties present interfered. The matter was dropped for the evening. On Monday following Smith appeared in the field where Harrell was plowing and with a double-barrel gun on his shoulder told Harrell "I have a warrant for you, and I am going to execute it." Harrell knew what it meant and jumped behind the mule for protection. Smith fired, killing the mule and wounding Harrell. Three buckshot entered his groin and two in the thigh. The wound is not likely to prove fatal. Smith walked off and has not been arrested.

Chattanooga Times.

The boiler of freight engine No 42, of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, burst yesterday morning at 6:20 o'clock, in the Nashville yard, about seventy-five yards east of the depot, causing the death of two men, the injury of two others, the destruction of a number of cars, and creating a shock like an earthquake, which was distinctly perceptible across the river, two miles from the scene of the explosion. The engine was one of the regular freight engines, a mogul, from the works of Danforth & Cooke, Paterson, New Jersey, with a capacity of pulling twenty loaded cars. It was purchased by the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad along with six others about seven years ago, and was considered one of the strongest and most trustworthy engines on the line. It was in charge of Mr. Chess Crow, with Mr. Charles Handman as fireman. The engine was manned early yesterday morning to carry freight train No 12 to Stevenson, the leaving time being 6:25 a.m. It was delivered by the hostler, Mr. Brown, to the engineer about 6 a.m., to all appearances in perfectly sound condition. A large fire was built, the blower was turned on, the sand box was filled, after which the tender was supplied with water from the tank standing near, and the engine drew forward to head the train of cars. The track ahead was not clear, and while the cars were being shoved aside, the engineer, Mr Crow, left the cab to examine the strainer into which the water from the tender empties in order to supply the boiler, Mr. Handman, in the meanwhile, being engaged in rubbing the jacket near the cab, standing on the bridge at the side of the boiler, one arm extending over it. While thus engaged, without one instant's warning, either by escaping steam or water, the terrific explosion rent the air, and what had been a beautiful and perfect engine a second before glistening in the sunlight, was a shapeless ruin. The explosion was a dull, heavy reverberation, as if it were the sound of a blast in a deep cave, but the concussion of the air was terrific, and the earth for miles around shook as if from an earthquake. Dishes in houses a mile distant clattered, the houses in a radius of half a mile from the explosion swayed on their foundations, and in all parts of the city inmates rushed out with blanched cheeks as if expecting some horrible calamity. A mile distant the jar in houses was slight, and the noise appeared as if from a falling body in each building. The jar was distinctly felt by Rev. J. J. Manker at Mr. H. C. Beck's residence in the third district, across the river, over two miles from the scene of the explosion. He also heard the noise and supposed it was either from the explosion of a torpedo near at hand, or the sound of a falling body inside the house. The effect was absolutely beyond comprehension, and attended by circumstances the most singular, miraculous and tragic. The fireman, Mr. Handman, who was over the boiler at the time of the explosion, was blown against the corner of a box car, twenty feet distant, striking it with such force as to demolish an entire corner. He then rebounded back and fell on a rock, just beside the locomotive. One arm was blown in the air to the height of one hundred feet, and fell a hundred yards from the scene of the explosion. The remains were dreadfully mutilated, and with difficulty kept together. Death, of course, ensued immediately. The escape of the engineer was miraculous. He was under the cab, near the drawhead, the only position he could have sought with safety. The explosion was mainly upward and to the right, and the only effect felt where he was crouching was the natural consequence of a bursting boiler, escaping steam, running water, flying cinders He was thrown face downward with terrific force by the concussion, but by the merest chance no missile struck him, and his life was saved. He crawled out half stunned as soon as possible and was at once removed to his home in the fifth ward near Hughes & Marquet's planing mill. He sustained a slight injury in the small of the back, a rib next to the spine was fractured, a contusion on the head was received but none of the wounds are of a serious nature. The most singular tragedy resulting from the accident, and probably the most remarkable occurrence ever before known in this city, was the death of Mr. J. C. Finch, temporary car inspector in the E. T., Va. and Ga yard. Mr. Finch is the regularly employed car greaser, but yesterday morning was acting as inspector in place of Mr. Silas Vinson, who had gone to Knoxville the night previous. At the time of the explosion Mr. Finch was in the yard marking a freight car. Mr. Cal Gurley and other clerks about the depot were within a few feet of him at the time, and when the explosion occurred the others instinctively turned in the direction of the sound, Mr. Finch, however, not appearing to heed it. Immediately after the explosion Mr. Gurley heard a peculiar whizzing sound, and saw some missile flying through the air towards him. Mr. Finch continued at his work, heedless of his impending doom. The iron missile, after having traveled through the air fully 1,500 yards, struck him square on the shoulder with terrific force, then turned and penetrated his side just below the armpit, breaking five ribs, passing through the left lung, a portion of the heart, the right lung, and lodging just under the ribs on the right side, having traversed the breadth of the trunk; he fell dead, without a gasp. The missile was removed from his body, and found to weigh nine pounds; it was a portion of the bell frame that, after moving through the air half a mile, to single out Mr. Finch, and strike him precisely where death would certainly ensue, was extraordinarily strange and unaccountable. The fourth casualty resulting from the explosion was the fracturing of the fibula of the left leg of Dr. Sloane, of Calhoun, Ga., having been struck with a piece of flue. He was passing the scene at the time, and when the explosion occurred dodged a tremendous fragment of the boiler, but could not escape the piece of flue. His hurt was dressed and he left at 8:30 a.m. for Knoxville, where he was bound. The cause of the explosion is not yet definitely settled. It was not from lack of water, for the engineer assured us yesterday evening that when he stepped from the engine all the gauges showed water, and no fresh water was flowing into the boiler at the time When Engineer Crow left the engine the gauge showed 147 pounds pressure; the blower was not on at the time he stepped from the cab. The engine was gauged at 153 to 155 pounds, at which point it would blow off. Its usual pressure was 150 pounds. The theory is that the gauge became clogged and the pop fastened, so that the real condition of the pressure could not be discovered, hence the explosion. The boiler was in good condition. Competent judges, who examined the ripped jacket, say they never saw better iron in a boiler. Mr. John Thompson, foreman of the shops, says he examined the sheets and found that they were good, with no imperfections of any consequence. He considered it an ordinarily good boiler plate. Engineer Crow does not know how to account for it, but says that it is possible that it originated from the formation of explosive coal gas, fresh coal having been thrown into the fire just before the explosion. It was, in fact, one of those unexplained occurrences, which science has yet failed to fathom.

DUAL-WIVED.

MR. FOLLANSBEE'S ADVENTURES.

How the Enterprising Son of Wisconsin Threw off the Old Love and Put on the New—The History of the Case Fully Told by Those Who Knew it All.

Follansbee, the man who is supposed to have two wives, spent Sunday and Monday in the city prison, cell No. 5

Early Sunday morning he was visited by a CONSTITUTION representative, but beyond the denial of the existence of a wife in Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, nothing could be drawn from him.

Yesterday Mr. Buchanan, at whose instance Follansbee was arrested, said to a CONSTITUTION reporter: "I knew Follansbee in 1876 He was then working for Longley & Robinson. I was also working there. Follansbee said that his home was in Fond du Lac, Wis, and that he had a wife and five children living there. On one occasion he showed me a letter written by his oldest daughter. After Follansbee quit Longley & Robinson I lost sight of him for a while, but occasionly saw him. One day after I was elected station house keeper I was glancing over a book in which there is kept a record of rewards, wants, etc. Among other letters of inquiry I found the following two, asking for Follansbee:

FOND DU LAC, October 27, 1879.—To the Chief of Police, Atlanta, Ga.—Dear Sir: I wrote to you some time ago (about a year and a half, I judge) and you kindly offered to assist me in the future if I requested it. I did not think of calling upon your kindness so soon, but necessity compels me to. You well remember I wrote you in regard to one John W. Follansbee. I would be very much obliged if you could tell me if he is in Atlanta yet and where he is stopping. I have mislaid your letter to me and have forgotten your name. I would like an answer as soon as possible. One of his children is very sick. By the way an agent from Memphis, Tenn., says he saw him in that place last spring; that he sent a message by him, but he had forgotten it. Yours sincerely,

MISS ISABEL R. SPAULDING,
Fond Du Lac, Wis., Box 426.

On the letter was the following indorsement:

Colonel L. P. Thomas: I suppose this note is intended for you. I cannot find any such man, and she says your letter was a year and a half ago. Can you give me any light on the subject? Respectfully, G. T. ANDERSON.

FOND DU LAC, November, 17, 1879.—George T. Anderson: Your postal received and contents noted. I am writing by the request of Mrs. John W. Follansbee. She would like to know his whereabouts, but would prefer that he know nothing of your trying to find him if you can get along without it. John W. Follansbee left Fond du Lac for Atlanta the 30th of October, 1875. He has been heard from until almost two years ago; is a short man, about five feet four inches high, forty-three years old, dark eyes and dark, curly hair. I inclose his photograph. I believe the gentleman's name I wrote to before was Athy; cannot recall his initials, as I have mislaid his letter. That gentleman said he was in Atlanta, stopping at the Atlanta house. It might have been a little over a year and a half ago. Is there a jobber in Atlanta by the name of William Binsel? You might obtain some information from him, as he left Fond du Lac in company with John W. Follansbee. Please do not mention for whom you are getting the information, as it might not have the desired result. Anxiously awaiting your reply, I remain, yours respectfully,

MISS ISABEL R. SPAULDING.

P.S.—Inclosed please find stamp. Would prefer you do not send a card; do not like to have anything made public. Many thanks for your kindness.

"As soon as I read these letters I knew that the Follansbee I knew at Longley & Robinson's, and the Follansbee for whom these letters were inquiring to be the same man, and I so informed Chief Anderson, but as Follansbee was charged with no crime I took no action except to look up his whereabouts.

"In glancing over the CONSTITUTION one morning, I read of his marriage to Miss Hunter, and at once recollected his telling me that he had a wife and five children in Fond du Lac, Wis. I also remembered the letters and knew at once that he was a bigamist.

"The Mr. Binsel spoken of in one of the letters is working at Messrs. Fred Hart & Sons, Marietta street, and knows that Follansbee is a married man. He knew him and his family in Fond du Lac. They came south together. Mr. Fred Hart knew him there and Follansbee may say what he wants; he has two wives and I will prove it."

Mr. Binsel was hunted up by the CONSTITUTION representative. He was busily engaged shaping a sash at Hart's planing mill. In response to the reportorial queries, he said that he knew Follansbee in Fond du Lac; that Follansbee had worked for him for some time in Fond du Lac; that he had five children, the eldest a girl about twenty-one years of age and was living with the mother of those children who was passing as his wife. He felt no doubt, in fact was certain, that she was Follansbee's wife. Since Mr. Binsel's residence in Atlanta he has received letters from Fond du Lac inquiring about Follansbee.

Soon after Follansbee married Miss Hunter Mrs Binsel clipped the marriage notice from THE CONSTITUTION columns and sent it to a friend of her's who resides just across the street from Follansbee's wife in Fond du Lac. As soon as the lady in Fond du Lac read the notice she went across to Mrs. Follansbee's home to show it to her, but when she entered the house she found Mrs. Follansbee reading the same notice, which some one in Atlanta had sent her. This was learned through a letter which Mrs. Binsel has received from Fond du Lac since sending the marriage notice.

In addition to Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Binsel, there are several persons in Atlanta who know Follansbee. One of these furnishes the CONSTITUTION with a brief history of Follansbee since 1875. During that year, said our informant, he arrived in Atlanta, but remained only a few days, he then went to Dahlonega where he secured work. Whilst in Dahlonega he began paying attention to the daughter of a widow lady, but soon the story of his wife in Fond du Lac leaked out and Follansbee got the set back. This information was given the lady's mother by Mrs. Binsel. Soon after this escapade Follansbee left Dahlonega for Atlanta. He came down the Chattahoochee to Iceville in a dugout. Then it was that he began work for Longley & Robinson. In '78 this firm discharged him and he went to Marietta and from there to Woodstock, in Cherokee county, where he worked in a gold mill until February last. During that month Collector Andrew Clark appointed him store keeper and gauger, and assigned him to Hunter & Crockett's distillery, near Decatur. Here it was that he became acquainted with Miss Hunter.

At the time Follansbee was seeking the appointment at Collector Clark's hands, he met Mr. Binsel and asked him to indorse his application. During the conversation he informed Mr. Binsel that he had heard from his wife a short time previous. He also said that there was a mortgage on his house and lot in Fond du Lac, and that he was seeking the appointment in order to cancel it, and it is said that Mr. Binsel not only signed the application, but that Mr. Hart attached his signature thereto, hoping thereby to aid the man.

Miss Hunter has returned to her father's home in Decatur. Mr. Hunter says that he cannot help thinking Follansbee a bigamist.

Late yesterday evening Follansbee granted the pencil pusher an audience. He said that he had employed a lawyer and would stand trial. He says that the woman in Wisconsin is not his wife, but admits that he lived with her for more than twenty years, during which time she passed as his wife, and as such obtained credit, but to Mr. Buchanan he has since his incarceration admitted having a wife in Fond du Lac.

His preliminary trial will occur Thursday next in Decatur. The prosecuting witnesses are Mrs. Eisbenery, with whom Follansbee boarded; Mr. Dyer, to whom he has frequently said that he was a married man; Mr. Fred Hart, Mr. Buchanan and Mr and Mrs. Binsel.

Intelligence of the coming of Follansbee's oldest daughter reached THE CONSTITUTION reporter late last night. It is said that she is en route to Atlanta, where she will arrive to-day, for the purpose of attempting to extricate her father from his position.

Decoration Day in Washington.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Decoration day was more generally observed throughout the north and east than in previous years. In many of the principal cities business was entirely suspended, and more than usual pomp and holiday circumstance characterized the commemorative event. At Philadelphia an especially touching sight occurred. On Friday last all the children took pots of flowers to school to be distributed among the various Grand Army posts, and this morning they were transferred to carriages to be taken to the various cemeteries. At most of the schools the little ones assembled, and in accompanying the posts to the graves formed a pleasant relief to the dark blue uniforms of the veterans.

NEW ORLEANS, May 30.—The soldiers' graves at Chelmette were decorated to-day, the ceremonies being under the auspices of the association of the Grand Army of the Republic. Hon. J. R. Beckwith delivered the oration. Bountiful floral offerings were contributed by the ladies of the Benevolent Monumental association of Louisiana. Among the participants in the ceremonies were ex-confederate associations of the Army of Tennessee, and the Army of Northern Virginia, the Louisiana field, the Orleans and the Washing... artillery companies, Continental Guards an... ican Veterans. The Constitution.

Never in our history has a reliable, first-class newspaper been so essentially needed by the Southern people as at present.

Never has THE CONSTITUTION been as thoroughly equipped and so fully prepared to furnish such a paper as at present.

With telegraphic service unequalled by any Southern paper; with trained Correspondents in every locality in which its readers are interested.

With a capable Editorial Staff, a corps of efficient Reporters, and the best of "special" contributors, THE CONSTITUTION can promise to its readers that it will be better than ever before, and will confirm its position as the leading Southern newspaper.

While THE CONSTITUTION will carry the general news of the day, and express its opinions frankly on political topics, it will devote special attention to the development of Southern resources in all legitimate channels or directions.

Every Georgian and every man interested in Southern enterprise and growth should read THE CONSTITUTION in one of its editions.

Address THE CONSTITUTION, Atlanta, Ga.

Entered as second-class matter in the Atlanta post-office, December 11, 1879.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 31, 1881.

ONE hundred and one failures occurred in the United States and Canada, a decrease of two when compared with the record of the previous week. There was an increase in New York, Ohio and Michigan, but in the southern states there has been for four weeks, a decreasing number of failures.

GENERAL GRANT has sailed for New Orleans, and Mr. Conkling has returned to Albany. For further particulars of the war between the stalwarts and the half-breeds, see our telegraphic columns. Yesterday was caucus day, and to-day the balloting begins. The battle will soon be hot and furious unless the weaker party ingloriously shows the white feather.

ENGLAND now practically controls Egypt, and has long held the chief strategic points on the African shore of the Mediterranean; but her domination of that great sea is hereafter to be disputed. France has seized Tunis, Italy will soon occupy Tripoli and Spain is thinking about taking in Morocco. It is to be hoped that all these changes will take place, for the sooner a new Europe is built up in Africa, the better for the dark continent and for civilization generally.

THE trouble on the Rio Grande has been renewed, a party of scouts having crossed the river in search of a band of Lepans, who, after murdering a citizen of Texas, fled to the Mexican territory. This business is becoming intolerable, and the government should put an end to it by pursuing criminals, if need be, to the capital itself of the Mexican republic. A firm stand on this subject would lead Mexico to take steps that would keep outlaws from seeking a refuge on her soil.

ADELINA PATTI is coming in October to become the great stage sensation—the Bernhardt—of next season. The tragedian Rossi will take the place that Salvini filled last winter. Rossi, like Salvini, plays only in Italian, and in his own country he is regarded as even better than Salvini in some parts—particularly in Hamlet. Outside of the largest cities it is understood that Patti will sing as the star of a concert company. If so, the people of Atlanta will doubtless have the good fortune to see both of these great artists without going away from home.

Macon and Atlanta.

We have received the following postal card, which we hasten to embalm in our print:

MACON, May 27.—Editors Constitution: Macon is soon to be blessed with water-works and some fine iron front store houses, and her citizens are elated at the cheering prospect. There is so much room for improvement here I don't blame them; indeed I heartily join in the elation, as doubtless, visitors will generally. With plenty of pure spring water and extensive iron fronts and the magnificent park, etc., Macon will soon begin to incite the gate city to still higher endeavor in her emulous, prideful advancement. It is now claimed by some intelligent and knowing ones of this city that "her wholesale trade is double that of Atlanta." This is seriously claimed. Is it a fact? Let the matter be investigated at once, and if Macon really has the lead in the wholesale trade, the boasted Chicago of the south must, in duty bound, lower her flag. I am for justice and the truth. If Macon's wholesale trade is double that of Atlanta, let us be manly and lower our flag to half mast.

ATLANTA CITIZEN.

We have not the slightest objection to the statement that Macon is doing so well. We do not even object to her claim that she has a larger wholesale business than Atlanta. The merchants of Macon are clever and progressive men and patronize THE CONSTITUTION liberally. We hope that Macon will get her iron fronts and water-works and park, but what she needs most vitally is a good newspaper. Without this she will never get credit for the progress that she really makes, nor will she find the attention of outsiders called to the many advantages she offers.

The present droopy and meditative concern that peddles diluted information about her streets is not what a growing city needs. The people of Macon will join us in the assertion that under her new impulse of growth, the central city needs a live progressive, wide-awake newspaper that believes a steam engine is better than a stage coach, and will welcome new railroads that are being built with imported capital and that look to the enrichment of the city, with something more cheerful than our protest of a dyspeptic or the languor of an æsthetic.

THE CONSTITUTION feels an interest in Macon—as it does in every city that is within the limits of the state—and we feel grateful for the hearty support its people have always accorded us. It is with pleasure, therefore, that we announce—and this must be the answer to the numerous private appeals we have had on the subject—that as soon as Colonel Cole's road to Macon is running, we will put a paper in Macon, under charge of one of the livest and best journalists in the state, that will fairly and fitly represent the thrift and progress of Georgia's prettiest city, and will cause our friends of the Repository to think more than ever that railroads may be a curse instead of a blessing. In the meantime Macon may feel sure that she will always meet at our hands the same justice she has always had.

carry the rest of the ticket and the legislature.

But warm as such a canvass would be in Ohio, it would be overshadowed by the one in New York and also the one in Virginia. New York and Virginia are, however, November states. In New York no governor is to be chosen, but most of the other chief state officers, and a complete legislature are to be elected. The events of the present week may lend an interest to the New York canvass that will hold the attention of the country. The outturn will scarcely be without great promise to the democrats; for the split in the republican party of the state is altogether too deep to be closed in a few months.

But after all, the Virginia canvass is the most important of the three, and therefore the most interesting. Next Thursday the readjusters are to meet to nominate a candidate for governor and other state officers. It is said that Mahone intends to make Riddleberger his candidate for governor, because Riddleberger was the head and front of the repudiation movement in the legislature, and because, too, he stands approved by the republican party of the country through his nomination for sergeant-at-arms of the senate. Mahone proposes, it is said, to ask the republicans of Virginia to accept the man that the republican senators have already accepted. This is a fine scheme; but as there are 80,000 republicans in Virginia and only 30,000 readjusters, it may not work, especially while the administration hesitates to hand over the Virginia patronage to Mahone to the detriment of the republican party of the state. Mr. Blaine is reported to be strongly opposed to the Mahone business. He prefers to sustain the republicans of Virginia, and the northern republicans are generally opposed to any dicker between their party and the repudiationists. If Mahone fails to secure the patronage of the government and is met with a full republican ticket, he is doomed to defeat at home. There will then remain only the matter of burial to get a bad-smelling subject out of the way. The recent town elections in his state indicate that this is to be his fate. In some of their strongholds the readjusters were last week overwhelmingly defeated, and at all points they lost strength. In Norfolk they were terribly beaten; two years ago they swept the city. And so it was in other towns. The result of these local elections shows that the democrats are united and hopeful, while the readjusters are dissipirited and going to pieces. The latter foresee a triangular contest, and a contest that promises them only defeat and subsequent disintegration. The potent influences of the state are against them, and the people who have followed Mahone have little use for him now that his plans have all miscarried and he has become a melancholy national spectacle.

THE eventful circus has begun its annual tour. Our experience is that the greatest curiosity connected with the eventful circus is the eloquent advance agent. We say this at the risk of doing injustice to some deserving mastodon aggregation of the world's wonders.

THE prospects are that Atlanta is about to be infested with railroads.

THE national board of health suggests that the authors of the recent sensational dispatches in regard to the health of Atlanta be prosecuted by the city, and it is stated that the proper authorities will at once institute an investigation.

THE republican steeds do not pull well together. This constitutes what Gorham finely calls a crisis.

THERE is a suspicion on the part of passers-by that the force which has been engaged in grading Whitehall street has been playing mumble-peg in the shade during the past week. This is a mistake. The force has simply been eating dinner.

IT is believed that Eli Perkins is preparing an essay in which he will vindicate both Dorsey and Brady.

MR. SCHURZ writes like a man who would be glad to send Conkling to one of the reservations in the Indian Territory. Conkling, however, is far more restless than a native Ponca.

MR. CONKLING would doubtless be glad if Mr. Blaine would get well. The secretary of state appears to be a very dangerous man when he is taking medicine.

Do we gather from our esteemed Macon contemporary that the central city is not in favor of the Macon and Brunswick extension? Or have we misinterpreted its recent comments?

CONKLING'S dearest enemies say he resigned in order to enjoy that domestic bliss which a man of his age and size may be said to have earned. His friends have thus far refused to discuss the subject.

THE able republican comedians are now playing an engagement for the benefit of the horny-handed democracy. Success is already assured, the newspapers speaking in the highest terms of the leading members of the troupe.

IT is to be hoped that Mr. Horace White will find it convenient to put his pen in the editorial columns of the New York Evening Post. He is one of the strongest writers in the country.

THE statement is made that Mr. L. C. Bryan is to be added to the editorial staff of the Savannah News. Mr. Bryan is a journalist of large experience, and he will be a positive addition to the News.

WHEN Mr. Conkling was "promoting" the deadlock in the senate, he little thought that he would shortly be engaged in promoting somewhat involuntarily, a deadlock in Albany. Our opinion is that Mr. Conkling sorely regrets his great versatility.

IF Mahone proposes to cultivate the sympathy of the North American people, he should write a card. This is the only sure road to an enduring fame.

IN GENERAL.

—A probable rising of the Brazilian slaves is the latest discouraging news from that section.

—General B. F. Butler and General Roger A. Pryor are about to form a law partnership.

—Lord Bute is building a magnificent mansion in Scotland, with outer walls five feet thick.

—"Merchant"—Notwithstanding the resignation of Mr. Le Duc, tea will continue to be raised in China.

—Queen Victoria says that young Disraeli has his uncle's eyelashes. The queen is a close observer.

—Mr. Blaine is about the worst man in the country to go gunning for. He lights on his feet every time.

—Roscoe Conkling has now been in private life two full weeks and the country still seems to hold together.

—President Porter, of Yale college, has declared his intention of using the revised New Testament in the college chapel.

—In many box factories the nails are now driven by machinery, one machine doing the work of ten or fifteen men.

—Mr. Dorsey is reported to look seedy and broken down, and yet it is only seven short months since he saved the country.

—Even Jefferson Davis still has designs on Washington. He has purchased a building lot in a fashionable part of the city.

—Mr. Conkling speaks of the caricatures of himself in the pictorial papers "with undisguised contempt." Same way with Mr. Platt.

—An American officer who has been visiting Gibraltar says that the coat of the English soldier is so tight that he cannot lift his rifle to his shoulder.

—General Ben Butler is unfortunate in his choice of nephews. One of them got into a scrape in Egypt and then into a Washington reformatory, and another is fighting the hangman.

—The war is over. A son of the late Secretary of War Stanton has lately married the daughter of Mrs. Phillips, the woman whom General Butler sent to Ship island for insulting union soldiers in New Orleans.

—The father of the late Commodore Nutt was a New Hampshire farmer, six feet two inches in height. The commodore's height was three feet seven inches, and for three years, it is said, Barnum paid him a salary of $10,000.

—Anna Dickinson's latest idea is to act the hero, Aurelian, in a play which she wrote several years ago for John McCullough. It was then intended that she should appear as the heroine, Zenobia, with the tragedian as Aurelian, but the project fell through.

—Garfield is to be presented with more horses by his grateful constituents, and the government, instead of building a new white house, will have to build a new stable. Judge Advocate D. G. Swain is in Kansas City, where he has left orders for three to be sent on to Washington to the president.

—"I liked the position, and told the president I wanted to keep it," said General G. A. Sheridan of the place now held by Fred Douglass in which tax payers paid him $7,000 a year, "although I was overworked. My office hours were from half-past 12 to a quarter of 1 every other Wednesday."

—The earl of Camperdown will probably succeed to the governorship of the Madras presidency, made vacant by the death of Governor Adam. The earl was for some time a lord of the admiralty and a lord in waiting to the queen. He is forty years of age, and a bachelor. The position is worth £13,000 a year.

—Chairmen of railroad companies in England do not indulge in sumtuous private cars at the shareholderss' expense. Special cars are provided for the queen, (whose journeys are estimated at $40,000 a year), and Lord Londonderry and the duke of Sutherland have private cars, but they pay for them.

—While Vienna was hurrahing over the recent imperial marriage, a poor tailor, the father of five children, all starving, shut himself up with them in a room, butchered them and stabbed himself. Suspicion having been aroused, the door of the room was burst open, and the police found him just alive, but covered with blood. He sat up for a moment, glanced at the five corpses, and then at a cage in which a canary was singing. "Give him to the janitor," he remarked, "otherwise he will starve to death," then he lay down and died.

—There was one picturesque incident about the wedding of Stephanie. No sooner was the ceremony concluded than the high master of ceremonies, stepping forward, requested all the Belgians in waiting on the princess—the stewards, chamberlains and ladies—to follow him, and led them away; their duties were at an end, for Princess Stephanie was now an Austrian. Next instant the master of ceremonies appeared at the head of a new cortege of ladies and gentlemen in waiting accredited to the crown princess—this time Austrians and Hungarians. This part of the ceremony was, perhaps, the most impressive of all, and the crown princess was deeply moved.

Mr. Wm. M. Wadley.

Augusta Chronicle.

One of the most conspicuous figures in railroad circles in the United States is Mr. William M. Wadley, president of the Central railroad, and lessee of the Georgia railroad. He is the manager of a great and important system, a system which embraces a vast line of steamers plying between Savannah and New York. That this system is destined to be of immense benefit to the state of Georgia and to all its cities, no one who will take the trouble to think over the matter can doubt for a moment. We have it from Mr. Wadley's own lips that he will not seek to build up any one portion of the state to the injury of another, but he will do all in his power to advance the general progress. When the lease of the Georgia railroad was first talked about, there were some who contended that such a lease would be for the advantage of Savannah at the expense of Augusta; that cotton would be taken from way stations of the Georgia railroad and transported to Savannah at a disproportionately lower rate than to Augusta; or, in other words, the long haul would be more advantageous to the shipper than the short. This Mr. Wadley declares most emphatically will not be the case. He is as much interested in building up Augusta as he is Savannah, and will do all in his power to add to its trade and prosperity. It was necessary for the sake of his own interests that he should obtain control of the Georgia railroad, and now, having obtained it, his position is impregnable. Nothing can be done that will injure the system and he is determined that his state, in which he has a great pride, should profit by it. He regards the development of Georgia as in its infancy, and believes that there is a magnificent future before it. The water power of Augusta, he is satisfied, will be the source of a rapid advancement for this city, an advancement which he will look upon with great interest and assist by every possible means. He believes that it will not be many years before a line of European steamers will be running into Savannah, combining with his railroad system to open up and develop the vast resources of Georgia.

For enterprise, devotion to purpose and remarkable energy, William M. Wadley has no superior. He is a grand specimen of those noble and progressive spirits who have built up the waste places of the country and added so much to the greatness of our republic. It is known of all men that in all his efforts Mr. Wadley has not sought personal aggrandizement, but with a lofty and laudable ambition he has had one object in view, the consolidation of the great railway lines of the state; and he has not rested until he attained that end. We believe that in carrying out his views to a successful termination he has done that which must redound to the good of the state, that will aid wonderfully in its material development and until the contrary of this is shown we hold that it is the duty of the people to give him their hearty and unqualified approval and co-operation. In all the stock excitement that has occurred in this section Mr. Wadley has engaged in no speculations. He has held to his one purpose, and when that was accomplished his only desire was the success of the system which had taken shape under his master mind. Mr. Wadley will reap his reward in the increased prosperity of Georgia and the approbation of his fellow-citizens. We in Augusta certainly have every reason to be satisfied. Mr. Wadley has declared most emphatically that he will do nothing to injure our trade, but rather to build it up. We believe that at an early day there will be an era of increased improvement as a consequence of the new system. Mr. Wadley has our best wishes, as he will have our hearty support, in everything that conduces to the advantage of Georgia.

The Imperialist "Appel au Peuple."

Springfield Republican.

When the late imperialist humbug, Napoleon III, was in his glory, he invented the plebiscite or subsequent popular vote as a way of securing condonation for his crimes. After the coup d'etat had made him an emperor by assassination he appealed to France for a plebiscite, and by the most unmitigated bullying of the people by a servile civil service and priesthood got it. When he wanted to annex Savoy, he allowed with pretentious generosity the people of the little Italian province to vote upon it and dragooned them into a lying expatriation. So he got another favorable plebiscite just before his luckless adventure with Germany, which put an end to the humbug.

Conkling is at heart a genuine imperialist. He believed in Grant as the personification of power, one boss admiring another. He doubtless got the idea of an appeal to the people from Napoleon III. He pursues the Napoleonic order and method—first, he usurped power belonging properly to the president; second, he asked for a vindication; third, he goes on to Albany to make the legislature vindicate him, whether they will or not. That is the Napoleonic game to a dot. In this course he has the sympathy of another distinguished imperialist, General Grant himself, who has just sent to Albany the following telegram:

MEXICO CITY.—I hope the legislature will sustain our senators. U. S. GRANT.

The general is inaccurate, as he proved to be in his letter to Jones, for of course he means ex-senators, but he is always imperialist,—"our senators," he says, following the analogy of the queen's speech, "my lords," and of his reference to Mr. Fish in his Jones letter as "my secretary of state."

Of course Conkling's empire is not the nation, but the empire state. That is his empire in an empire, where he strikes the stroke of state, and seeks the plebiscite. In his letter to Governor Cornell he describes the state of New York as "the power to which alone we are bound to be ever ready to bow." There is a state's right doctrine as blatant as any uttered in 1861 by senators who left the chambers of the capitol declaring that they must go with their states into the rebellion. Mr. Conkling has not merely resigned a senatorship of the United States—he has destroyed it. No re-election can put him again in the old place; if he ever returns, it will be as an imperialist New York senator, with a plebiscite wrenched from an unwilling constituency, and not as a United States senator. He will have to put N. Y. S., New York senator, after his name upon his frank, instead of the old and proud initials, U. S. S.,—of the United States senate.

The Late Mr. Conkling.

Philadelphia Times, ind.

The news is that Conkling has finally sneered himself into private life.

Albany Dispatch.

"We've got the hog hook into him," said Senator Sessions, "and are drawing him toward the hot water. That's what's the matter."

Thomasville Times.

The administration party ought to hire Sprague to hang around Albany with his shot gun. That would settle the senatorial business.

Baltimore Gazette, dem.

The New York Tribune says that Conkling, having lost his seat, his dignity and his temper, only has his Platt left. This is not strictly correct. He still retains his curl—and his sneer.

Springfield Republican, rep.

Conkling has twice deserved well of his country. Many public men cannot say as much. He declined the position of chief justice and resigned his seat as senator.

Philadelphia Times, ind.

This country is getting along very comfortably without Conkling. As a matter of humanity it would be nice to know that Conkling is getting along as well without the country. But he isn't and everybody knows it.

New York Star, dem.

"You have dragged me up here to do the dirty work of a ward politician," remonstrated the refined Roscoe with his friend Arthur when he saw how the ground lay at Albany. Arthur dragged him back to New York on the cars last night. To-day he will drag him around Wall street, as more corruption money must be raised. And next week, when the favorite son gets his final knockdown, Arthur, like a good second, will drag him out and bury him decently. Poor Conk...

Poor Mahone.

New York World.

Mahone, with his bridge broken at b... is probably Mr. Conkling's most sinc... Mr Platt's too. It appears from ... Richmond corres...

supporters in Virginia have fallen away from him through disgust at his attempted bargain with the republicans, and the other half are expected to fall away from him by reason of the failure of that bargain. Hoar must feel very badly when he thinks how many Virginians have been prevented from setting their faces towards the morning by Conkling. Platt too.

Philadelphia Times.

The reaction in Virginia against Mahone is coming sooner and is stronger than was anticipated. The town elections on Thursday are reported as showing a strength for the regular democrats which they themselves did not expect. The Mahone people declare that the elections were not a test of the real sentiment of the people of the state on the issues dividing the readjusters and the debt-payers; but the fight between the two parties has been so sharp and so continuous that voters undoubtedly divided on that line and expressed their preferences for local candidates as they were readjusters or regular democrats. The elections go to increase the signs of Mahone's coming downfall. The deadlock seems to have served the purpose of opening the eyes of Virginians of all parties to the disgrace that would result from the triumph of Mahone in the next fall's election.

Dr. Pierce's Advice.

From "Our Brother in Black."

The late venerable and eloquent Dr. Lovick Pierce, who never missed a chance, during a ministry of seventy-five years, to do the negroes good was preaching once on "Christian Progress" at a camp-meeting. It was his manner to make astonishing climaxes now and then. On this occasion he laid down the law of life and death in Christian experience; "Brethren, you must grow or die. Progress you must make. If you can fly, fly; if you can't fly, run; if you can't run, walk; if you can't walk, crawl." His voice was rising to its full trumpet tones, and his eyes flashing as few eyes ever flashed. His right hand was still high advanced. The congregation trembled for him. What could he say more? But he was the master of such a crisis. He would up the sentence with an expression like thunder: "If you can't crawl—worm it along!"

Home Prosperity.

Springfield Republican.

The southern newspapers are good reading these days. They take sensible, and in the main patriotic, views of national politics, and are engaged in the pleasant labor of recording home prosperity. The coming exposition at Atlanta is cordially welcomed, and promises to fittingly represent and benefit southern industries. In addition to the business boom already reported from several cities of the south, Richmond claims "everywhere signs of brighter and better things." Her railroad enterprises are being vigorously manned and pushed, a great hotel and opera-house are projected, the state newspaper urges that the city must have a new hall, and it calls for the embarkation of capital in manufacturing enterprises, arguing that "skilled, intelligent labor employed in the productive industries of a city is its mainstay and dependence."

Handsome, Handsome Dr. Loring.

New York Sun.

Dr. Loring is considered a handsome man by farmers' wives. He wears a Prince Albert coat, buttoned closely, and his rich voice seems to proceed from the region of the middle button. He has the faculty of becoming eloquent on topics little calculated to inspire men to eloquence, and he can speak to any length and breadth on any subject without forethought. When he rises in the tent at a cattle show and waxes eloquent upon the soil of the surrounding hills, even the squashes seem to crook their necks to get a better view of him, the conscious pumpkins turn a deeper red, and the bunches of seed corn prick up their ears. Dr. Loring is also equal to an oration at short notice on centennial occasions and that sort of thing, and he has never been known to refrain from being eloquent.

"Uncle Remus" at Home and Abroad.

"J. R. R." in Augusta Chronicle.

Derby is enraptured with Mr. J. C. Harris's "Uncle Remus," which has proved one of the most popular of recent publications. It is now rising 12,000, and has crossed the water, giving its gifted author a continental as well as an American reputation, on a line with that of Mark Twain. I am glad of this, not only for the sake of Joe Harris, but for the sake of Georgia. Our people should be proud of their boy who has illustrated them, and who will, like Hans Christian Andersen, live in the hearts of little children, not to speak of a larger growth.

The Democrats to Win.

St. Louis Republican.

The Washington deadlock turned out so advantageously to the democracy, that we look confidently and cheerfully forward to an equally satisfactory outcome at Albany. The worst that can result there is the re-election of Conkling by democratic votes. To put it plainly, the democrats stand to win, no matter how the cards turn.

The Plain Truth, Mr. Garfield.

New York Times, rep.

Nothing could be clearer than the duty of the national administration to keep its skirts entirely clear of repudiation in Virginia in any form. The republican party can very well afford to bide its time in that state, and any success purchased by a compromise with the readjusters would be, in the long run, ruinous.

Again At It.

Philadelphia Times.

As we are now within three years of the beginning of another presidential campaign, John Kelly's newspapers are again energetically breaking down the health of Tilden. How many centuries this thing is to go on would be interesting to know.

Further Proof.

Norwalk Reflector.

Another convincing proof that Conkling is wrong is that Ben. Butler sides with him.

And then—go tell your neighbor.

—The prince of Wales has become very popular during his visit to Pesth. Count Andrassy told him at a public dinner that he had, by his frank and amiable manner, taken every Hungarian heart by storm. He predicted that the prince would make as excellent a sovereign as he was now charming as a man. The prince bought, during his visit, four magnificent Hungarian horses and several sets of the gorgeous national costume of the Magyars, adorned with remarkable jewels and native gems of great value.

The Reason Why.

The tonic effect of Kidney-Wort is produced by its cleansing and purifying action on the blood. Where there is a gravelly deposit in the urine, or milky, ropy urine from disordered kidneys, it cures without fail. Constipation and piles readily yield to its cathartic and healing power. Put up in dry vegetable form or liquid (very concentrated), either act prompt and sure.—Troy Budget.

—"The Fondu" is the rage in New York society. It consists of Gruyere cheese and spices, a Welsh rare-bit, in fact, concocted in an enameled pot, a gypsy kettle, over a fire. The sticks and pots are decorated with garlands of smilax, and a merry assembly assist at the repast, which is eaten with Rhine wine, Kirchiener, and Sauterne.

A Fine Hair Dressing.

Cocoaine dresses the hair perfectly, and is also a preparation unequalled for the eradication of dandruff.

THE superiority of Burnett's Flavoring Extracts consists in their purity and strength.

—Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone, a fortnight ago, were the guests of the queen at Windsor Castle. When they had concluded their visit they were driven to the railway station in one of the royal carriages, and as they alighted on the platform near the queen's private waiting room passengers and citizens had congregated in large numbers to salute them.

CELERY

As a Remedy for Nervous Diseases.

WHAT THE MEDICAL PROFESSION SAY ABOUT IT,

—AND—

The Good Results Attending Its Use

—IN—

Headache, Neuralgia, Nervousness, Indigestion, Sleeplessness and Paralysis.

CELERY has come into pubuic notice within the last few years as a nervine, but scientific experiments and experience have proved beyond a doubt that it controls nervous irritation and periodic nervous and sick headaches to a marked degree.

Brown-Sequard says that Celery contains more nerve food than any other vegetable or substance found in nature. Celery was first discovered and used as a nervine by French physicians about 1867. But a combination of the EXTRACT OF CELERY AND CHAMOMILE, which has been but recently introduced to the profession and the public by Dr. C. W. Benson, has produced such marvelous results in curing nervousness and headaches, and especially nervous and sick headaches, neuralgia, paralysis, indigestion and sleeplessness, that it has excited public attention and newspaper comments, and many physicians have tested the merits of this preparation with the best results, as quoted below from a few:

WHAT PHYSICIANS SAY.

"Dr. Benson's preparation of Celery and Chamomile for nervous diseases is the most important addition made to the materia medica in the last quarter of century."—Dr. J. W. J. Englar, of Baltimore.

"These Pills are invaluable in nervous diseases."—Dr. Hammond, of New York.

"Dr. Benson's Pills are worth their weight in gold in nervous and sick headache."—Dr. A. H. Schlichter, of Baltimore.

"Dr. Benson's Pills for the cure of neuralgia are a success."—Dr. G. P. Holman, of Christiansburg, Va.

These Pills are a special preparation, only for the cure of special diseases, as named, and for these diseases they are worthy of a trial by all intelligent sufferers. They are prepared expressly to cure sick headache, nervous headache, dyspeptic headache, neuralgia, nervousness, paralysis, sleeplessness and indigestion, and will cure any case. Price 50 cents, postage free. Sold by all druggists. Depot, 106 North Eutaw st., Baltimore. Atlanta Depot at LAMAR, RANKIN & LAMAR'S Drug Store, corner of Pryor and Decatur streets.

The Rockbridge (Va.) Alum Springs

AND THE LATE "Jordan Alum"

NOW CONSOLIDATED IN ONE PROPERTY AND UNDER ONE MANAGEMENT.

A joint stock company having bought these two contiguous properties, to be known under the old title of "Rockbridge Alum Springs," will open to the public on June 1st, under the supervision of Mr William Frazier, who was before the war, and for four years after the war, in charge of the original Alum Springs. We think the public will find him the right man in the right place. J. FRED. EFFINGER, President Rockbridge Alum Springs Co.

After twelve years' absence I return to this post of duty. It is hardly necessary to dilate to the Southern public upon the virtues and value of this mineral water. It has in the last half century made a record of cures in chronic diseases which for variety and aggravation of the cases brought under its influence is unapproached by any known mineral water in this country. The professional testimony to this effect is distinguished and unimpeachable.

But it is of the preparations now being made by the new proprietors for the proper entertainment of the public I would say a few words.

A great work of expurgation and renovation is now going on at the old Alum Springs, including a thorough system of drainage, a new and abundant water supply of pure freestone from the mountain, repainting and new roofing, a very large introduction of new furniture, and in general thorough overhauling of the entire premises.

The elegance of the new "Jordan Alum," its spacious and commodious "Grand Hotel" and Cottages, and the Beauty of its Grounds, are widely known to the Springs-going public.

My aim and earnest effort shall be to keep this now combined establishment in a manner to give satisfaction to all reasonable guests.

An Excellent Livery is engaged under a contract imposing a reasonable tariff of charges. All the customary diversions are provided for, such as Band and Ball-Room Music, Bowling and Billiards, and all that; but I do not "bank" much on these things. My main efforts shall be directed, with the aid of an efficient staff, to make the patrons of the place Comfortable and "At Home," and regain, if possible, for this attractive summer resort, its old popularity and prestige.

Please send to PURCELL, LADD & Co., Richmond, Va., or the undersigned, for descriptive pamphlet with rates of board, routes, and medical testimony. WILLIAM FRAZIER, Gen. Supt.

KIDNEY-WORT

DOES WONDERFUL CURES! WHY?

Because it acts on the LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS at the same time.

Because it cleanses the system of the poisonous humors that develope in Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Biliousness, Jaundice, Constipation, Piles, or in Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Disorders and Female Complaints.

SEE WHAT PEOPLE SAY:

Eugene B. Stork, of Junction City, Kansas, says, Kidney-Wort cured him after regular Physicians had been trying for four years.

Mrs. John Arnall, of Washington, Ohio, says her boy was given up to die by four prominent physicians and that he was afterwards cured by Kidney-Wort.

M. M. B. Goodwin, an editor in Chardon, Ohio, says he was not expected to live, being bloated beyond belief, but Kidney-Wort cured him.

Anna L. Jarrett of South Salem, N. Y., says that seven years suffering from kidney troubles and other complications was ended by the use of Kidney-Wort.

John B. Lawrence of Jackson, Tenn., suffered for years from liver and kidney troubles and after taking "barrels of other medicines," Kidney-Wort made him well.

Michael Coto of Montgomery Center, Vt., suffered eight years with kidney difficulty and was unable to work. Kidney-Wort made him "well as ever."

KIDNEY-WORT

PERMANENTLY CURES KIDNEY DISEASES, LIVER COMPLAINTS, Constipation and Piles.

It is put up in Dry Vegetable Form in tin cans, one package of which makes six quarts of medicine. Also in Liquid Form, very Concentrated, for those that cannot readily prepare it.

It acts with equal efficiency in either form. GET IT AT THE DRUGGISTS. PRICE, $1.00

MEDICATED STEAM

Vermin Destroyer AND DISINFECTANT,

A NEW AND WONDERFUL INVENTION.

AN EFFECTIVE, CERTAIN AND SIMPLE MEANS OF Destroying Bed Bugs, Cockroaches, Ants, Moths and Parasites of all kinds.

The apparatus for generating the steam is an ordinary nursery lamp, holding half a pint of the Medicated Fluid with a tube at the top to direct the Medicated Steam upon any point infested with insects. It is heated with a small spirit lamp beneath the boiler. For Dwellings, Hotels, Steam Ships, Restaurants, etc., nothing ever discovered equals this appliance. It is harmless to human life; is inexpensive and simple in its use. While a most potent means for destroying vermin, it is the best disinfectant known and may be most effectually used to prevent the spread of contagious diseases, such as Yellow Fever, Scarlet Fever, Typhoid Fever, Diptheria, Small Pox, &c. One trial is the best proof of the great advantages of this over all other appliances. For sale by Druggists and General Dealers.

DOCTOR MUDD.

A Talk With the Man Who Set Wilkes Booth's Broken Leg.

G. A. Townsend in the New York Tribune.

While I was ordering dinner in the little bar of the White tavern at Bryanton, Maryland, some time ago, a gentleman drove up in a buggy who had a strong body and countenance. He was clad in grayish clothes, with a broad brimmed soft black hat, and his jaws were long, the lines of his face expressive of will and character, and his eyes were generally half closed, though in them you could see that he had a search ing observation. He was bearded about the chin and had a strong pair of shoulders. Altogether he had a Virginia body under the Maryland head. I addressed him and at first he was a little guarded, but in a few minutes dismissed hesitancy and spoke frankly on the greatest subject which ever came within the range of his family or his neighborhood. This was Dr. George F. Mudd, the cousin of Dr. Samuel R. Mudd, the celebrated accomplice of Booth. He is a republican, and I was told by the neighbors holds the very highest position in all that region, and has the largest medical practice. There are four doctors at Bryantown and vicinity, and it is, though a pretty place in itself, the center of the best families probably in Charles county.

The following is a memorandum I made on Dr. Mudd's remarks: "Wilkes Booth," he said, "was well known here during the five or six months previous to the assassination. According to the best of our knowledge he came here first direct from Washington city, riding out on horseback, and went to the house of Dr. Queen, four or five miles below Bryantown; he brought a letter of introduction from Canada. The people hereabouts knew who he was—rather an unusual profession and kind of man to be among us here. Dr. Samuel R. Mudd had been a medical student in my office; he would be one of the last men to assassinate anybody, but he was a bitter man in the war, and that sullen, sour feeling was not uncommon among us. There is no question but that he knew Booth some time before the tragedy, and was in the plan to abduct the president. Nor is there any doubt but that Booth had long selected this country as the region through which he meant to operate. He had studied these roads, and several of the parties he picked up in this part of the country as accessories had no other with them than their knowledge of the roads and how to get in and out. In that way, perhaps, he picked up Surratt, Atzerodt and Herold. When he came out from Washington the night of the murder he came on the direct road to Bryantown, until at some distance to the northwest of us he struck the road leading him across the swamp to Dr. Mudd's house. There he arrived in the morning and stayed all day and took the next night to go to the Potomac. That is why so few persons saw him. I think his plan was to ride by night and hide by day; that required of course a good previous knowledge of the country. The night he left Dr. Mudd's he came due south, passing by a road two or three miles east of this and between here and Hughesville, till he came to another road running off somewhat easterly; by that he got down to Cox's place. Mr. Cox died a year or so ago. I saw him in custody in the second story of this hotel with handcuffs on his hands. The only person who saw Booth that night that has spoken is a negro who directed him to Cox's house. Our supposition has been here that Booth crossed immediately into Virginia, but the contrary opinion prevails. If he could get across the river there was not much necessity for his staying on this side, which was soon overran with troops."

The Profits of the Revision.

New York Herald.

The question has been asked again and again: Where do the profits of sales of the revised New Testament go? There is no Bible society or missionary association to profit thereby, but after paying expenses, which by the English committee are given as $100,000 for work thus far done on both Testaments, all other profits go to the University press publishers who at the outset, in lieu of the copyright guaranteed all expenses to the revisers then. The American committee, however, do not receive and will not get one cent. Their expenses, not for labor, but for travel, correspondence, stationery, etc., have been paid by private subscriptions up to this time. The profits must be very great if the Oxford publishers have already sold, as reported, 2,000,000 copies. But this number includes the 500,000 sent to this country. The different styles are sold cheaper in the United States than they are in England, Canada, and the colonies, because of the lack of international copyright here. For example, the very popular twenty cent edition sold here in New York, sells in London and Quebec for twenty-five or thirty cents, and the higher priced copies are proportionally increased.

Philanthropy and Business.

With commendable goodness of heart and characteristic business tact, our irrepressible, energetic friend, Dr. A. Byron Clarke, has just presented the unfortunate paralytic who comfortably fills a goat wagon, and stations himself promiscuously in different parts of the city soliciting alms, with a large size blue gingham umbrella to protect him from the rays of the burning summer's sun. Since the presentation, however, the doctor, with a perception alive to the importance and virtue of judicious advertising, has concluded to have the outside of said umbrella lettered, calling the attention of the public to the long established merits of the "Great English Washing Solution" and Colgate's original "Old Hundred Washing Powders." Pedestrians who "may pause and reflect" on "what's up" are likely to be saluted with the familiar "gimme five cents; I can't walk," whether they have a nickel to give away or not.

English Finances.

LONDON, May 28.—The Economist of this week says: The rate of discount for bank bills for 60 days to three months is 1⅞ per cent, and for trade bills 60 days to three months 2@2⅛ per cent. The great rise during May in stock exchange shows how extensive the desire to buy has been, and how powerfully the present cheapness of money has affected the market. Securities are accumulating here and in Paris, and many are held with borrowed money. There was a pause in the advance on Friday as difficulty was experienced in obtaining sufficient funds. This appeared to rather shake the belief in the continuance of cheap money, as the whole result of a week's fluctuations is less strongly upward than for some weeks previous. In foreign stocks the leading features have been the rise in Turkish, Peruvian and Italian; in American railways, Central Pacific of California has risen 5, St. Louis and San Francisco 2, and Union Pacific 7⅛. The Cairo and Vincennes declined 2, and the Ohio and Mississippi 1. It is understood that several leading bankers have recently applied to the government to allow the issue of two and a half per cent bonds, payable to the bearer. The capital of the new investments announced this week amounts to the sum of £8,000,000. In the last six months the new securities advertised, including foreign loans, exceed £150,000,000, involving cash contributions of something like three-fourths of that amount. We also bought largely of American investments not originally brought out here, and have thus committed ourselves to a lack of accumulated capital of considerably over £150,000,000. The principal offerings this week were £2,500,000 Argentine 6 per cent bonds at 91, £2,000,000 Cape government 4 per cent bonds at 95⅛, £100,000 Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad 4½ per cent bonds at 97.

An Old Doctor's Advice.

It was this: "Trust in God and keep your bowels open" For this purpose many an old doctor has advised the habitually costive to take Kidney-Wort—for no other remedy so effectually overcomes this condition, and that without the distress and griping which other medicines cause. It is a radical cure for piles. Don't fail to use it.—Translated from the New Yorker Zeitung.

—On the death of the late Lady Blanche Murphy, the daughter of the earl of Gainsborough, the impression prevailed that she had died completely estranged from her family. That such was not the case is shown by the following extract from the London Tablet of April 23: "Lord Gainsborough certainly did not approve of his daughter's marriage, and so long as it was not a fait accompli he opposed it on grounds which every parent and head of a family will readily appreciate. But when the young lady remained firm in her resolve, and opposition was no longer possible, the earl accepted as a fact that which he could not conscientiously approve. Lady Blanche was married from her father's house, and though she voluntarily expatriated herself in the prosecution of her ideal (of earning her own maintenance), she remained from the first on terms of the most affectionate correspondence with her father and all her nearest relations and friends."

Because it adds to Personal Beauty by restoring color and lustre to gray or faded hair, and is beneficial to the scalp, is why Parker's Hair Balsam is such a popular dressing.

HOLMES'S LINIMENT,

—OR THE—

MOTHER'S FRIEND.

ONE OF THE GREATEST COMFORTS TO THOSE EXPECTING TO BE CONFINED

Is a remedy upon which implicit confidence can be placed—one that will produce a safe and quick delivery—one that will control pain, and shorten the duration of Labor. Such is "THE MOTHER'S RELIEF." Try it, and see what

A BLESSING IT IS TO SUFFERING FEMALES.

This Liniment, when used for two or three weeks before confinement, produces a wonderful effect, causing a very easy and quick labor, with comparatively little pain, and leaves the mother in a condition to recover quickly—or, in other words, to have a good getting up. Under its use, labor will ordinarily occupy much less than the usual time, and the suffering be diminished beyond expression.

The condition for which this remedy is offered is of such a character as to forbid a long array of certificates. Those interested in its use are respectfully referred to the hundreds who have used it.

READ THE TESTIMONIALS.

I most earnestly entreat every female expecting to be confined to use "THE MOTHER'S RELIEF." Coupled with this entreaty, I will add, that during a large obstetrical practice, (forty four years) I have never known it to fail to produce a safe and quick delivery.

H. J. HOLMES, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

A lady from one of the counties of Middle Georgia, who has been acting Midwife for many years writes: "I have disposed of all the Mother's Relief you sent me, and I AM DELIGHTED WITH IT. In every instance where it has been used, its effects have been all that I could ask. I CONSIDER IT A GREAT BLESSING."

A gentleman writes: "My wife used the bottle of 'Mother's Relief' procured from you. She was considerably advanced in life before this, her first confinement, and she KNOWS it was the means of very greatly lessening her suffering, if, indeed, it was not THE MEANS OF SAVING HER LIFE."

Another gentleman writes: "My wife used your 'Mother's Relief' at her fourth confinement, and her testimony is that she passed through it with one-half the suffering of either of her former confinements, and recovered from its effects in much less time. She also recommended it to a lady friend who was about to be confined for the first time, and she says: 'I HAVE NEVER SEEN ANY ONE PASS THROUGH THIS GREAT TRIAL WITH SO MUCH EASE AND SO LITTLE SUFFERING.'"

The names of all these, and many others, can be had by calling at my office.

Having had the foregoing remedy Thoroughly Tested in Atlanta and vicinity, I now offer it to my patrons as possessing superior merits. Prepared by

J. BRADFIELD, Sole Proprietor, ATLANTA, GA.

Sold by Druggists generally. Price $1.50 per bottle.

Restored to Life.

From the Hot Springs Sentinel, May 10th.

Scarcely any citizen or visitor has failed to notice upon our streets a colored man by the name of Charles Peters, who came to this city about four weeks ago, the most wretched and pitiable of all humanity. Our attention was arrested by his presence upon our streets on last Saturday afternoon in the full regalia of the S. S. S. Company; and upon inquiry as to its meaning, we were informed by Mr. Johnson, the agent here, that he had adopted this plan, to ocular demonstrate and satisfy skeptics of the wonderful curative powers of the S. S. S. medicine. Here is a case that the company can point to with pride and satisfaction, and say, away with skepticism!

What the Druggists Say

Helena, Ark., May 17, 1881.

We have sold two gross S. S. S. in the last few months, and it gives better satisfaction to our customers than anything of the kind we have ever handled.

JACKSON & CO, Druggists.

St. Joseph, Mo., May 16, 1881.

Within the last nine months I have sold at retail two gross S. S. S. It has given entire satisfaction to everybody.

R. A. BRITTAIN, Druggist.

Louisville, Ky., May 17, 1881.

We have handled four gross S. S. S. in the last few months, and have never had a complaint of it.

ARTHUR PETER & CO.

Memphis, Tenn., May 16, 1881.

Your S. S. S. is selling rapidly and gives universal satisfaction. From the many gross sold during the past year we have nothing but favorable reports, and believe it to be a specific indeed for the purpose intended.

G. W. JONES & CO.

Dallas, Texas, May 14, 1881.

I have sold at retail in four months over a gross S. S. S., and have watched its effects very closely, and to every one who has used it, it has given entire satisfaction. I have seen it used in the primary, in the secondary and in the tertiary stages, and in each with the most wonderful effect. I have seen it stop the hair from falling out in a very short time. I advise all sufferers to take it and be cured. Yours truly,

W. H. PATTERSON, Druggist.

Sherman, Texas, May 17, 1881

I have sold at retail two and a half gross S. S. S. in less than a year. It has given entire satisfaction to every one.

A. B. RICHARDS, Druggist.

Richmond, Va., May 14, 1881.

We have sold two gross S. S. S. in the past six months, and it has given universal satisfaction.

R. W. POWERS & CO., Druggists.

Little Rock, Ark., May 13, 1881.

I have handled two gross S. S. S. in a short time, and it has given perfect satisfaction.

The Police Commission.

There was a called meeting of the board of police commissioners last night. Commissioner Dodd, chairman; Commissioner Goldsmith, secretary, and Commissioners Fox, Thrower and Hancock were present.
The resignation of Patrolman Moon was received and accepted.
After three ballots Supernumerary M. T. Simmons was chosen as the successor to Patrolman Moon.
Upon motion, J. H. Stroud was added to the supernumerary list
Commissioner Goldsmith called attention of the board to the large number of negroes who frequent the city hall park every evening to the exclusion of ladies and children.
The question was referred to the chief of police.
The board then adjourned.

THE EXPOSITION.

The Contract for the Building—An Interesting Letter.

The contract for the erection of the exposition building was let yesterday to T. G. Healey for $45,000. The contractor is to furnish everything and have one wing of the building ready for the reception of machinery by August 1st, another by August 15, a third by September 1st and the entire building completed by the 15th of September. About twenty or thirty small buildings will be erected on the grounds, but they are not included in the contract mentioned above. Engineer Sabin has gone north to contract for motive power, shafting, automatic fire extinguishers, etc, for the building.

The following letter from the American Institute Farmers' club, of New York, one of the finest clubs in the union, has been received:

AMERICAN INSTITUTE FARMERS' CLUB, New York, May 26th, 1881.—At a regular meeting of the Farmers' club, of the American institute, held in its rooms in the Cooper union, on Tuesday, May 24th, 1881, Dr. I. P. Garrish in the chair, Mr. J. M. Jones offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Farmers' club of the American institute, of the city of New York, do most cordially extend our encouragement and co-operation in the Atlanta cotton exhibition, to be held in that city in October next We hail this as the most important enterprise undertaken by our sister southern states; as it will confer benefits to them such as our American institute exhibitions have upon the agricultural, mechanical and manufacturing interests of the north and west, in developing skill and industry to such perfection as to command the first premium at the various international exhibitions.

Resolved, That a committee of five members be appointed to attend this exhibition and report the proceedings to the club.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the officers of the Atlanta exhibition; and we extend to them and other members when visiting our city the use of our rooms and library as well as their attendance at our club meetings.

The committee will be appointed at the next meeting.

THE HEALTH OF ATLANTA.

Attacked by An Irresponsible Bohemian.

The following letter from the secretary of the national board of health was received by Dr. Baird yesterday. The secretary incloses another clipping from a newspaper correspondent in this city, about the health of the city. There are irresponsible parties in our midst who do all they can to injure our city, and the sooner the authorities take this matter in hand and put a stop to it the better it will be for the city. The following is the letter to Dr. Baird:

NATIONAL BOARD OF HEALTH, Washington, May 28—Dr. James B. Baird, Secretary Board of Health, Atlanta, Ga.—Sir: I have to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of 26th inst, forwarding report upon alleged epidemic of scarlet fever in Atlanta and to state that it has been referred to the bulletin. Please accept the thanks of this office for your prompt response. I inclose the latest bit of newspaper clipping and would suggest that the correspondent of any paper that inserts such matters without authoritative facts should be punished. I am, doctor, very respectfully,
T. J. TURNER,
Secretary of the National Board of Health.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

An Address by Rev. Dr. Mayo, of Massachusetts.

ATLANTA, May 28.—Rev. A. D. Mayo, D.D.—Dear Sir: Having learned that it is your purpose to remain in Atlanta during the coming week, we hereby invite you to deliver, in the hall of the house of representatives, an address on some topic connected with popular education, at such time as may suit your convenience. We know it will afford many of our citizens much pleasure to hear one so widely and favorably known as a writer and speaker on educational themes. Very respectfully yours, W A Wright, D N Speer, J C Kimball, R D Spalding, Gustavus J. Orr, Mark Johnston, J W Warren, N C Barnett, W A Moore, D Mayer, Charles E Boynton, E P Chamberlin, Er Lawshe, H Hirsch, Benjamin Conley, H T Phillips, M C Blanchard, John Isham, W F Slaton, P I Mynatt, Henry Jackson, L P Grant, W W Lumpkin, George Hillyer, H K McCay, B H Hill, Richard Peters.

DR. MAYO'S REPLY.,

ATLANTA, May 30—To Hon. Gustavus J. Orr and others—Gentlemen: Your kind invitation to address the people of Atlanta on the subject of education has been received. I thank you for your expression of confidence and your interest in the object of my present visit to the southern states, the observation of schools and cultivation of the acquaintance of teaching and friends of education. I will deliver an address on Thursday evening, June 2d, at 8 o'clock, in the hall of the house of representatives on the subject, "Does universal education pay?" Yours with great respect,
A. D. MAYO.

Fine Oats.

George Tommey has just harvested his oats and says he has made 75 bushels to the acre. He used the Sunny South Guano, and believes that with a few more seed he could have made 100 bushels to the acre.

The above item we clip from the Semi-Weekly Americus Republican. Messrs. Ramspeck & Green are general agents for this brand of guano, and the result of its use by farmers is substantiating in the most practical manner all the above gentlemen claim for it.

The Wounded Negro.

Oscar Jones, the negro man who was shot Saturday night last by James Chastain is still alive and the physicians say he may recover though his life is yet in a precarious condition. The wound in his shoulder is slight, but the other causes the apprehension.

Chastain is still at large. He was seen Saturday night about 10 o'clock several miles from town going toward the river.

In Limbo.

Oscar Bone, a ten-year-old white boy, was yester arrested by Officer White, upon a warrant charging him with larceny from the house. It is said that Oscar is one of the gang that have recently made the frequent depredations upon town residences. He is an inmate of cell five and claims to be guiltless.

Room Robbed.

Sunday night a bed room over John Stephens & Co., on Alabama street, was robbed of quite an amount of cash, etc. A pocketbook containing $8 in money, one pair cuff buttons, one watch chain, one silk cap, were taken. It is thought that Oscar Bone had a finger in this pie.

Another Diamond Thief.

Mrs. Jane Holleman, No 85 Pine street, was burglarized yesterday. The missing articles are one diamond ring, one gold ring, one chime, one ten dollar bill, one five dollar bill and one silver dollar. No clue.

The Red Men's Picnic.

The Red Men of Atlanta picnicked yesterday at Ponce de Leon springs. The street cars began their runs early in the morning, and each trip carried a big load. The day was spent pleasantly by all.

Ripe Peaches.

The first shipment of peaches passed through the city Saturday last. They are of the product of a West Point, Ga., orchard. All were destined for New York.

Ho! For Canada via Niagara Falls.

To accommodate delegates, visitors and others desiring to visit the International Sunday school convention to be held at Toronto, Canada, June 22 and 23, a special train will leave Atlanta Thursday night, June 16th, via Cincinnati and Niagara Falls, arriving at Toronto Saturday afternoon. Excursion tickets will be sold, good for 30 days, at $39 10, with privilege of stopping at principal cities en route or returning. Parties desiring to join the excursion should advise the undersigned as early as possible.

Two Jolly Philadelphia Teutons in Luck!

Mr. Alexander Beyer and his chum, C. Bander, put one dollar each in a letter and sent it to M. A. Dauphin at No. 212 Broadway, New York city, N. Y, (the same addressed "New Orleans, La.," would answer as well), and received in return half of ticket No. 76 071 in the April drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and each put in his pocket $1,250, with which they purchased neat little houses in Philadelphia. The Grand Semi-Annual Drawing takes place June 14th, when over $500,000 will be scattered under the supervision of Generals Beauregard and Early.

Who are anxious to dress in the most fashionable styles will do well to call at the office of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company, No. 71 Whitehall street, and examine the June styles just received. It is quite unnecessary to speak of the great popularity of Mme. Demorest's Perfect Fitting Paper Patterns as every lady who patronizes the most artistically designed garments for herself or children is aware that the styles of Mme. Demorest are not equaled by any fashions published. There are some very elegant new designs in Ladies,' Misses and Children's garments; especially the trimmed suits and traveling garments.
The Summer publications are ready for those who desire them at the Fashion Counter of the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company. 933 may29 sun&tues

Fifty-five and a half bid; White Corn sacked and delivered in Atlanta 87.
JOHN C. FEARS,
Inspector, Grain Exchange, St. Louis.

CORN BUYERS.

The above is John C. Fears's telegram on file at my office. Mr. Fears has no interest in grain—not a bushel. He is the inspector on 'change and keeps me posted for my interest; therefore, his telegrams are reliable and disinterested, only so far as he can promote my interest, ... his relative and friend, by giving me true market reports daily. I assure you this is no "Bull" on my part, as I am and now can buy no more except at my risk, which I decline. I have contracted for 130 Cars of Choice Corn, which I hold parties up to deliver. After that is sold I am out, as I will not take the risk of shipping Western Inspection at 50 cents a bushel. "A Word to the wise is sufficient." I expect to see corn $1.00 a bushel by the 20th of June.

To My Customers in Southwest Georgia

I will price corn, delivered on cars at Macon, "Money remitted either to me or either Bank in Atlanta," to whom an Invoice and Bill of Lading will be delivered. If the buyers wish to sell the Corn come to Atlanta and I will deduct from invoices railroad fare from Macon and return.

Physicians Indorse It.
MACON, Ga., March 20, 1881.
R. B. Hall, druggist, Macon, Ga.—I have prescribed Sanodine in a case of foul, unhealthy ulcer of the leg, of large size, and fifteen years standing. In a few days after commencing its use the ulcer assumed a healthy appearance, and the process of granulation commenced In two weeks I found that cicatrization had considerably advanced. I then lost sight of the case, fully assured, however, that a continuation of the treatment would result in speedy and permanent cure.

Georgia. Fulton County—To the Honorable Superior Court of said county.

THE PETITION OF JOSEPH F. BURKE, William C. Sparks, Joseph H Lumpkin, Eugene W. Hewitt, Thomas H. Morgan, and Charles E. Sciple, respectfully shows that they desire a charter incorporating them and their successors under the name of "The Board of Trustees of the Gate City Guard." The object of their incorporation is to purchase property and erect an Armory for said Gate City Guard, and to protect and keep and manage the same, and to manage, in their discretion, the other property or funds which may come into their hands as such Trustees. They desire power to use a corporate seal, sue and be sued, make contracts, to buy, to take title, sell and convey property for the purpose of furthering the objects aforesaid, to give entertainments or exhibitions, issue negotiable securities, and in general to do such acts as may seem best to them in furtherance of the objects of their incorporation. Their principal place of doing business will be in Atlanta, said state and county. They will have no shares or paid in capital, but will receive such property or funds as may come to them from time to time from any source, and will keep, manage or dispose of the same as they may deem best for the objects aforesaid. The said Trustees are to serve for the terms and in the manner now provided for the Constitution and By Laws of said Gate City Guard.

Wherefore they pray that they and their successors may be incorporated for the full period of twenty years, with the privilege of renewal, with the powers and rights aforesaid.
J. H. LUMPKIN,
Petioners' Attorney.

THE STATE OF GEORGIA, COUNTY OF Fulton—To the Superior court of Said County Your petitioner, the Georgia Eclectic Medical College, of Atlanta, in said state and county, most respectfully shows that it has become necessary, in order to carry out the objects of its creation, to purchase a site and erect a college building thereon, and furnish the same with proper library and laboratory, and other things necessary to medical colleges. Petitioner, therefore, prays that its charter heretofore granted, to wit, on the 15th day of April, 1877, be amended by adding thereto the following words: "And the said Georgia Eclectic Medical College, in order to enable it to purchase a site, erect college buildings, and furnish the same, is hereby authorized to issue and sell as many bonds as a majority of the trustees by vote, may think necessary; not to exceed in amount $5,000, on such terms, and of such denominations as may be considered most advisable, and to negotiate and sell the same. Said bonds, when sold, to be a first fixed lien upon all property owned by said corporation." And your petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, etc. JOHN D. CUNNINGHAM, Attorney for Petitioner.
